Mississippi Woman Rules Out Confession In Murder Of Three Men, Then Dismisses Charges Against 19 Of 21 Conspirators

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — At the request of the Justice Department, a woman U.S. commissioner today freed a 20th man arrested last week in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers in Mississippi.

Commissioner Verta Lee Sweetman dismissed the charge against James Edward Jordan, 38, during a preliminary hearing here that took only two minutes.

By DON MCKEE
MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The Justice Department prepared today to present its evidence to a federal grand jury against 19 men freed of charges in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers.

Federal attorneys were stunned Thursday when U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter ruled out a purported confession at a preliminary hearing. When the Justice Department refused to proceed, she dismissed the conspiracy charges against the men, thus freeing them. They were among 21 white men arrested Dec. 4.

It will be up to U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox at Jackson to convene the grand jury but Robert Owen, Justice Department attorney, said, "We will ask that a grand jury be called as soon as possible."

LEAVING TODAY

Another man, James Jordan, was to have a hearing today at Biloxi, Miss., before U.S. Commissioner Verta Lee Sweetman. Jordan, who was arrested in his hometown of Gulfport Friday, was not affected by the Meridian action.

No date was set for a preliminary hearing for the 21st man, Horace D. Barnett, who was arrested in Shreveport, La.

When Miss Carter ruled against the testimony of an FBI agent, Owen declined to put up additional evidence.

Then the gray-haired commissioner said she had no alternative but to grant a defense motion to throw out the charges.

RELEASE BONDS
"The defendants are discharged," she said, and ordered their release from bonds of $3,500 to $5,000.

The 4 defendants, including Neshoba County Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and his deputy, Cecil Price, left the Meridian Courthouse free of all charges only six days after their arrest in a roundup by FBI agents.

The dramatic moment in the hearing came with the first and only witness, FBI agent Henry Rask of Atlanta. Owen asked the agent if he had interviewed Barnett, one of 10 men the FBI had charged with taking part in the slayings.

Rask testified he interviewed Barnett, 25, of Cullen, La., and formerly of Meridian, on Nov. 19, 20 and 21.

GOT CONFESSION

"Did you obtain from him a signed confession?" the short, broad-faced Owen inquired quietly. There was complete silence in the packed courtroom.

"I did," Rask said. Then Owen asked the agent how he obtained the statement and Rask began: "I talked to (Continued On Page 6)

SCHOOLS ARE REIMBURSED FOR BUS COSTS

M. Francis Coulson, county superintendent of schools, has been advised that checks totaling $81,498.49 have been mailed by the state to 12 school districts in Adams County for transportation reimbursement during 1963-64. School districts not included in the current report received their reimbursements in November.

Payments have been made to the following districts:

Cumberland Township, $20,256.65; Fairfield Area School (Merged), $19,426.39; (Fairfield Borough), $3,120; Hamilton Township, $11,680.68; Liberty Township, $4,625.71; Germany Township, $4,541.58; Littlestown Borough, $6,097.12; Mt. Joy Independent, $3,754.15; Mt. Joy Township, $5,631.23; Mt. Pleasant Township, $1,695.08; New Oxford Area School (Merged), $27,268.38; Union Township School, $3,827.91.

FBI Says He Confessed

Horace Doyle Barnett, 25, of Minden, La., at the time of his arrest in Shreveport, La., signed a confession in connection with the killing of three civil rights workers, FBI Agent Henry Rask told a U.S. Commissioner in Meridian, Miss., Thursday. Announcement of the alleged confession came at a preliminary hearing before Commissioner Esther Carter for 19 of 21 men arrested for deaths of civil rights near Philadelphia, Miss., last summer. ## Local Photograph On U.P. Calendar

A color picture showing two local men sounding taps at the Highwater Mark is featured in the 1965 calendar issued by the Union Pacific Railroad and distributed throughout the west. A photographer for the railroad took the photograph two years ago, making arrangements for the two men appearing in the photo through Curvin Heist, Fifth St., commanding officer of the 87th Pennsylvania, a North-South Skirmish group.

The two are Robert Plank and Donald Sheely, who appear in a Union and a Confederate uniform, each sounding a bugle, facing each other in front of the marker at the Highwater Mark. The photographer took the picture early in the morning in order to place the men in semi-illuminated.

COUNTY ASKED TO TAKE BRIDGE IN CUMBERLAND

Cumberland Twp. supervisors this morning presented a petition bearing the signatures of 53 taxpayers requesting that the county commissioners take over the responsibility for maintaining a steel bridge over Wiloughby Run on the Black Horse Tavern Rd.

The petition states that the township is financially unable to maintain the bridge for traffic and that it has neither an engineer nor equipment for such maintenance. The petition further declares that the bridge is necessary for the use of residents of the area.

The commissioners accepted the petition and agreed to study the proposal.

REVIEW APPLICATIONS

The board met early this morning with Paul Harvey, map division supervisor, to review 16 applications for three drafting and plotting positions in the map department. The board had approved a wage scale of $1.50 per hour for three employees.

Dennis Stauffer, Littlestown, assumed his duties this morning as deputy clerk at a salary of $4,200 a year. The commissioners approved the employment of a deputy to assist Mr. Hardy Nichols at Tuesday's meeting.

The commissioners this afternoon inspected repairs to the covered bridge at Kuhn's Ford, East Berlin, with H. C. Wells, state engineer. The repair work is about 90 per cent complete.

TO ADDRESS CLASS

Rev. Dr. Paul L. Reaser will speak Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock at a meeting of the Men's Bible Class in St. James Lutheran Church.

Nun Quizzed In Maryland School "Aid" Controversy

ANNAPOLIS — Defense counsel today completed their case for Joseph College, Emmitsburg, and moved on to the presentation of their general case in the landmark constitutional action of "The Horace Mann League versus J. Millard Tawes."

St. Joseph is one of four college defendants — along with Eood College, Notre Dame of Maryland College and Western Maryland College — in the case, which is designed to challenge the constitutionality of state-aid to church-related educational institutions.

PRINCIPAL WITNESS

Under attack by the plaintiffs are $2,500,000 in appropriations by the General Assembly to provide matching building fund grants to the colleges. The present case is being tried before the Circuit Court of Anne Arundel County.

Principal witness for St. Joseph was Sister Rosemary Pfaff, president of the college for the last two years and formerly dean of students.

NO STUDENT BAN

She said there was no prohibition on non-Catholic students at the school and that non-Catholics were not obliged to complete the full religion and philosophy requirement imposed on Catholic students.

She denied that the Archbishop of Baltimore had any power to control appointments or course content at the college and she (Continued on Page 2)

Klunk Spent $2,014 On Election Drive

Fred G. Klunk, New Oxford, Democratic candidate for assemblyman, spent $2,017.69 in his unsuccessful bid for the post, according to his expense account filed in the commissioners' office.

Donations to his campaign totaled $250, $100 from the Democratic State Committee, $50 from Harry Kuhn and $100 from Arthur Rice.

The account lists $1,277.69 spent for advertising, $736 spent for miscellaneous purposes, car use, refreshments, etc. during the campaign. $4 was spent for photographs. The account lists $371.41 representing advertising owed Times and News Publishing Co., unpaid as of the time of filing the report.

HOT OIL BURNS THREE FIREMEN AT CAR BLAZE

Three McSherrystown firemen were burned Thursday evening when hot transmission oil sprayed from a blazing auto.

Among those injured was Eugene A. Murren, Hanover R. 4, McSherrystown fire chief, who is secretary of the Adams County Fire Chiefs' Association. He had burns about the forehead.

The others injured were John W. Riser Jr., 104 Second St., McSherrystown, who was burned on the arms, shoulders, neck and face and W. Donald Hausenfluck, 128 North St., McSherrystown, who was burned on the forehead and eyes.

The firemen were called to the 500 block of North St., McSherrystown, at 6:45 o'clock Thursday night when a car owned by Carroll Hyser, 506 North St., caught fire. While the firemen were extinguishing the blaze the hot oil suddenly sprayed from the vehicle.

FIRE CHIEFS MEET

Fire Chiefs President Robert Hartman, Gettysburg, appointed Wilmer Rodgers, Abbotsburg; Sterling H. White, Emmitsburg; Kurvin Krout, East Berlin and Rodney Noel, Bonneauville, as a nominating committee to report in January.

Hartman reminded the chiefs to forward to County Civil Defense Director William G. Weaver names and addresses of new officers when elected.

Raymond Small, Bonneauville, was named a life honorary member. Awards were made to Bobby Strausbaugh, Gettysburg; Loraine Hamberg, Union Bridge and Francis Hull, Orrtanna R. 1.

Hanover Police Chief Berkheimer explained how bomb scares are checked.

Township To Seek Area Authority

Conewago Twp. supervisors in a legal notice today announced plans to file December 15 with the Secretary of the Commonwealth articles of incorporation for a Conewago Twp. Municipal Authority.

Signed by the township secretary, Joseph F. Smith, the notice states that the authority is designed to handle sewage disposal systems and treatment facilities in the township.

Named as members of the authority are Raymond A. Little, Bernard C. Schuchart, Charles R. Doll, Henry J. Conrad and Darrell E. Hofheims.

Fiscle To Head Greenmount Co.

James Fiscle was elected to succeed Walter Null as president of the Greenmount Fire Co. at the annual election of officers this week.

Also elected were: Vice president, Fred Green; secretary, John Fissel; treasurer, Robert Miller; fire chief, Norman Plank; assistant chief, Walter Null; custodian, Leonard Dick, trustee, Fred Green; chief of fire police, John Rohrbach; treasurer of the firemen's relief fund, John Fissel.

It was decided to hold the annual Christmas party for children of the Greenmount area on Sunday, December 20, at 2 p.m., at the fire hall, James Fiscle, Edgar McDonnell, Paul Staley Sr., and John Fissel will be in charge of the party.

SEKS STABILITY

In the other main field of action, Johnson attached top priority to measures to build political stability in South Viet Nam — but that is a goal toward which the United States has been trying to move for more than a year, and one on which U.S. officials do not expect quicker dramatic results.

The administration expressed concern, in the final White House statement on Taylor's consultations here, that the flow of reinforcements and supplies from Communist North Viet Nam to South Viet Nam had increased, though no details were given.

MAIN PURPOSE

Slowing the movement of such assistance to the Viet Cong would be one of the main purposes of air strikes against the lines in Laos. But another purpose would be to try to get across to North Viet Nam and to Red China that the United States does not intend to permit the Communist conquest in the south, and will take increasing risks, if necessary, to defeat the Red threat, not only to South Viet Nam but to all Southeast Asia.

The hope of officials here is that, if Communist leaders can be brought to realize the dangers of expanding war, as a result of their operations against South Viet Nam and to a lesser extent against the neutralist government of Laos, they eventually may be persuaded to agree to reasonable peace settlements.

The administration expressed concern, in the final White House statement on Taylor's consultations here, that the flow

WGET To Broadcast Concert On Sunday

The Christmas concert to be presented by the music department of Gettysburg College in Christ Chapel Sunday evening will be aired by radio station WGET, it was announced today.

The Gettysburg Times, as it has for a number of years, will sponsor the broadcast by WGET of Sunday evening's concert. Saturday evening's concert will not be aired.

Sunday's broadcast, AM and FM, will begin at approximately 7:30 o'clock.

CWRT ANNUAL LADIES NIGHT SET FOR JAN. 28

The annual ladies' night dinner of the Gettysburg Civil War Round Table will be held January 28, the organization decided Thursday evening at its meeting in the GAR home, E. Middle St.

President George Kauffman appointed O. G. MacPherson as chairman for the event tentatively scheduled to be held at the Dutch Cupboard, National Park Superintendent Kittredge Wing will be the speaker.

Martin Conway, National Park historian, gave details of the two battles of Manassas at Thursday's meeting. Noting that the Union forces were defeated at the first Battle of Manassas on July 21, 1861, Conway said, "Personally I think the loss did more for the North than the victory did for the South. It convinced the North that this would be a serious war, and it settled down to get the men and materials that would win it. At the same time the Confederates gained overconfidence that I think directly led to their defeat at Gettysburg. They won with regularity from first Manassas to Gettysburg — even Antietam was not a loss but a draw. I think overconfidence in the abilities of their troops led to Lee's sending Pickett against the Union center on July 3, 1863, at Gettysburg."

WASHINGTON FEARS
The first Manassas battle led to the Union troops coming in from the south of Gettysburg. "It caused a fear for the safety of Washington which led to the Army of the Potomac's being handled so that it was kept as far as possible between Washington and the Confederate forces in order to protect the capital."

G. Henry Roth spoke on "Gettysburg After the Battle." Noting that the town was full of debris and dead after the armies left the scene, he added:

$1,100 Donated To County Firemen

McSherrystown residents donated "in excess of $1,100" to the McSherrystown Fire Company in the annual "coin card" collection. Treasurer Lawrence Leonard reported at Wednesday evening's meeting. He also reported that $1,042.74 from foreign fire insurance had been received for the Firemen's Relief Fund.

President Eugene Murren announced the contract for the 1965 carnival has been signed. He also reported two fire calls during the month and "a good turnout at fire school."

Three men were proposed for active membership. The company voted to again erect Christmas decorations.

DALE GUISE HEADS BIGLER FIRE COMPANY

Dale Guise was elected president of the Biglerville Fire Company Thursday evening succeeding Mervin Weikert, who served one year. Weikert refused re-nomination for a second term. Fred Arnold was re-elected vice president.

Other officers are: Secretary, Richard Gaither; assistant secretary, Donald Blocher; ambulance secretary, Clyde Funt; treasurer, Samuel Helsey; ambulance treasurer, Merton Eckerd; chief nozzelman, Gary Wagaman; Andrew Starnes; auditors, C. William Settle, Harold Smallwood and O. C. Rice Jr.

Firemen voted to sell a monitor which was replaced when the company purchased a base station. Letters of thanks for services at recent fires and a donation were received from Frank Hewetson, Gettysburg R. 6, and Robert Deatrick, Aspers.

SANTA TO VISIT

Firemen were reminded by Weikert that Santa Claus will be at the fire house December 21 from 7 to 9 p.m. to treat children of the Biglerville area.

The ambulance account showed a balance of $1,661.78 and the company voted to pay a $1,200 note on the ambulance, reducing the debt to $7,800. A donation from the borough in the amount of $550 was received and deposited to the general account, which showed a balance of $1,107.44.

Weikert appointed Fred Arnold and Robert E. Baker to the canteen committee for January. Larry Wright, Biglerville, presented an application for membership to the company. Retiring President Mervin Weikert presided at the meeting which was attended by 30 firemen.

CHILDREN TO BE GUESTS AT XMAS PARTY

The annual Christmas children's party will be held at the Mt. Carmel EUB Church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Alfred Gotwalt announced today.

The program is the first of a series of Christmas activities in the three churches of the charge.

A Christmas candlelight service will be held at Mt. Carmel Church at 7 p.m. Sunday and a play, "The Shoemaker's Dream," under the direction of Mrs. Gladys Robert, will be presented at that church at 7:30 p.m. December 22.

At Mt. Hope EUB Church officers of the Sunday School and church will be elected at the 11 o'clock worship service Sunday morning. The offering will be for the Quincy EUB Home. At the Mt. Hope Church the Children's Christmas program will be held December 17 at 7:30 p.m. and a candlelight service will be held at that church December 24 at 7:30 p.m.

At Mt. Calvary EUB Church the children's program will be December 18 at the church; a Christmas party will be held at Greenmount fire hall December 19; a candlelight service will be held at the church December 20 and a cantata and play will be offered at the church December 23, with the offering that night to be for the Quincy EUB Home. All of the Mt. Calvary activities will be at 7:30 p.m.

The Senior Choir will go on stage during the singing of "O Come All Ye Faithful." Following the procession, the choir will present a group of Christmas selections, a French carol, "Sing We Now of Christmas"; "The Little Drummer Boy," Simeone; "Do You Hear What I Hear?" Shayne.

XMAS TRIBUTE

"The Christmas Tribute," a short work for mixed voices by Anthony Garlick, will be sung by the choir. It is a contemporary work and Nativity scenes will be shown. They are by artists of the Italian school and are reproductions from collections in the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the National Gallery of Art. The soprano soloist will be Miss Sally Jackson.

Khanh Escapes Death Thursday

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Lieut. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, commander of South Viet Nam's armed forces, escaped death Thursday when the Viet Cong attacked an airport from which he was about to take off.

With Khanh, former premier of South Viet Nam, was Dr. Nguyen Luu Vien, deputy premier in Premier Tran Van Huong's civilian government.

A government source said Khanh and Vien were visiting Phu Quoc, a 30-mile-long island in the Gulf of Siam. They were about to return to Saigon when the attack began.

The plane they were to use was damaged in the fight, and the two men were forced to spend the night on the island. Another plane was sent in for them today and they returned to Saigon safely.

POLICE RAID THREE CLUBS ON THURSDAY

Three local veterans clubs were raided by state police Thursday night and their managers charged with maintaining gambling places.

The raids, conducted by officers from Harrisburg and Gettysburg, took place at 7 o'clock at the Catholic War Veterans Post, Bonneauville; the American Legion Post, Baltimore St., and the VFW home on E. Middle St.

Brought before Justice of the Peace John Whitman and charged with maintaining gambling devices were Raymond Francis Small, Gettysburg R. 5, manager of the Bonneauville CWV; J. Bernard James, Hanover, manager of the American Legion home; and John Edward Kerrigan, 368 E. Middle St., manager of the VFW.

POST $500 BAIL

All posted $500 bail, the first two for hearings before Justice Whitman on December 22 at 1 p.m. Kerrigan waived the hearing to appear in court on the charge.

State police Cpl. Harold W. Eckenrode said 109 punch boards, $42 in cash, 60 prizes and one "fish bowl" were confiscated from the three places.

SCHOOL XMAS PROGRAM TO BE GIVEN TWICE

The annual Christmas program will be presented twice by students of the Gettysburg Area Senior High School. The senior high school choir and school orchestra will participate.

The first program, "An Evening of Christmas Music" will be presented in the junior high school auditorium Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The second program will be given December 23 at 10 a.m. Dismissal for the Christmas holidays will be at 3:30 p.m. on December 23. The public is invited to attend either program.

ORCHESTRA OPENS

The program will open with the school orchestra playing the following selections: "Angels We Have Heard on High," French carol; "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," English carol; "Deck the Halls," Welsh carol; "Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy," Tchaikovsky; "Toyland Waltz," Herbert; "Sleigh Ride," Mozart; "Greensleeves," arranged by Williams. The orchestra is directed by Neil A. Justice.

The Senior Choir will go on stage during the singing of "O Come All Ye Faithful." Following the procession, the choir will present a group of Christmas selections, a French carol, "Sing We Now of Christmas"; "The Little Drummer Boy," Simeone; "Do You Hear What I Hear?" Shayne.

YOUTHS ELUDE TOWN POLICE; 3 CARS STOLEN

Borough Policeman Paul B. Shealer was nearly run over early this morning when he attempted to check a car that later was found to have been stolen, and police throughout the county were probing a number of burglaries, car thefts and car recoveries during the night.

Officers Raymond Menges and Shealer, on patrol at 12:15 o'clock this morning on York St., saw a car parked in the Rogers Sunoco Service Station lot, York St. Two young men were in the car, and the police decided to make a routine check. As Shealer walked toward the vehicle it suddenly lurched toward him. He jumped aside and the car crashed into a pole, damaging the rear. The car then drove at high speed into York St. When it ran into a sign at the Snack Shack, the two men leaped out and ran south with the officers in pursuit.

Police said the youths appeared to be about 18 to 20 years of age, about five feet nine, wore jackets, no hats. The officers lost them in the Rock Creek area at Hanover St.

The officers had radioed for assistance and Sergeant Daniel Miller, Officers Clarence Cluck, Ray Breighner and Russell Potter Jr. and Cumberland Twp. Officer Bernard V. Miller Sr. joined in the search.

The officers found that the service station had been entered. A window on the east side was broken, 12 packs of cigarettes were missing.

FIND 2 RADIOS
In the wrecked gray Cadillac sedan, with New Jersey license ETE-907, the officers found two new Westinghouse radios in their original boxes.

The officers suspect the youths may have stolen Boyd Rinehart's car from his carport on John's Ave. sometime this morning. Rinehart's 1956 Chevrolet station wagon was found about 100 feet from the Water St. home of Donald A. Gilbert, Fairfield, whose 1959 Chevrolet four-door Bel Air sedan had been stolen from in front of his home. Rinehart's station wagon was out of gas and its keys were missing when it was found, Fairfield Police Chief Wilbert Fleming said. Gilbert's car was described as of gun-metal color with white stripe and having license number P66954.

OTHER TROUBLE
During the night borough police received a report that a vending machine had been broken into at Ned's Tavern, Chambersburg St.

State police received a report that a 1965 Rambler convertible, white with black top and license number A8388B, had been stolen from Herbert Wolf, Littlestown R. 2. Wolf discovered parked at his home a 1956 two-door white Ford sedan with license number 526990 that apparently had been stolen from McKeesport.

BURY MRS. MILLER
Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Miller, 86, widow of Maurice Miller, who died Monday at her home on S. Washington St., were held this morning with a Requiem Mass in St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church with Rev. Fr. John Wildeman officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery. The pallbearers were William Carter, Bernard Carter, Charles Carter, Gregory Williams, John Williams and Patrick Williams.

VETS TO MEET
The Gettysburg Barracks of the Veterans of World War I and its auxiliary will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the VFW Home, E. Middle St. Commander Frank Merriken has announced. The barracks will meet in the VFW meeting room and the auxiliary will meet in the ballroom.

Oxford Twp. supervisors stated their opposition to efforts of seven property owners in the township to have 43 acres annexed to the New Oxford borough at a two-hour hearing this morning in the courthouse. Atty. Eugene M. Hartman conducted the hearing.

Appearing for the township supervisors were William H. Smith, Lester Rider and Francis Riser, who said the annexation would seriously affect the tax revenue of the township. The assessed valuation of the tracts is approximately $25,000. Seven of the nine property owners affected by the annexation have stated that they want sewerage service that can be provided by joining the borough. Some of the properties involved now are being supplied with borough water. The supervisors were represented by Atty. S. M. Raffensperger.

Appearing in support of the annexation were Lee Haines, representing Tracey Engineers for the borough; Thomas Cline, Oxford Container Co., and P. Louis Schultz, who is operating the Kuhn Convalescent Home. Cline and Schultz testified to the need for sewerage facilities for the township. Atty. Oscar F. Spicer represented the borough.

Ray Epley, one of the property owners in the 43-acre area under consideration, protested the annexation on the grounds that he does not want the added expense of a sewer hook-up, since he has private facilities for meeting the need.

ENGAGEMENTS

MISS DEARDORFF

Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Deardorff, Aspers R. 1, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rae Theresa, to Wilson H. Harman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther C. Harman, Biglerville R. 1.

Miss Deardorff is a graduate of Biglerville High School. Her fiancé graduated from the same school in 1962. He is serving in the Marine Corps.

No date has been set for the wedding.

James-Gruver

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar R. Gruver, Dover, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sandra Ann, to Ronald R. James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin R. James, Midway. Miss Gruver is a 1962 graduate of New Oxford High School and is employed as a secretary at the U.S. Naval Supply Depot, Mechanicsburg. Her fiancé is a 1961 graduate of Delone Catholic High School and is serving as a radioman seaman in the U.S. Navy aboard the U.S. Calcaterra, out of Newport, R.I.

Baranowski-Klunk

The engagement of Miss Mary Ann Klunk and Henry J. Baranowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Baranowski, Shamokin, has been announced by Miss Klunk's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Klunk, New Oxford R. 1.

Miss Klunk is a registered nurse. Both are employed at Selinsgrove State School and Hospital.

The wedding is planned for the Christmas season.

CITES EARLY XMAS CUSTOMS

Details of the origin of Christmas customs were outlined by Mrs. Charles Leader at the annual Christmas dinner of the Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday evening at Schottie's Restaurant, Littlestown.

Trimming of Christmas trees and lights on the trees come from German customs, she said. The creche and other religious symbols were started by the Italians. She told the group that "it is to be regretted" that "Christmas has become over-commercialized and that the use of Xmas, omitting the word Christ from Christmas, causes it to lose its religious significance."

Miss Joyce Schwartz appeared as "Santa" and presented gifts to the members. Mrs. Bernard Murray read a Christmas story. Mrs. Philip Hughes conducted several guessing contests and a spelling bee.

Mrs. Paul G. Pensinger presided.

COLLEGE GIVEN $3,000 GRANT

H. Clifford Carroll, district manager, Humble Oil & Refining Company, Harrisburg, presented a check for $3,000 to Dr. C. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg College, this morning in the president's office on the campus.

Gettysburg College is among the more than 300 privately controlled, four-year institutions of higher learning sharing in unrestricted grants from the Esso Education Foundation which total $2.2 million for the current academic year.

This brings the total of such grants since the foundation's inception 10 years ago to nearly $17 million.

The Esso Education Foundation grants will also include special development programs, building projects, laboratory and library facilities, and also the United Negro College Fund, graduate science and engineering departments of universities and miscellaneous projects.

M. J. Rathbone and M. L. Haider, chairman and vice chairman of the Esso Education Foundation, point out in a report issued by the foundation that educational institutions will continue to be the primary source of the leadership and manpower necessary for this nation to continue to prosper.

There are 99,274 farms in California.

CUMBERLAND ADDS DOG LAW TO ORDINANCES

Cumberland Twp. supervisors Thursday night adopted an ordinance providing fines for permitting dogs to run at large; adopted an ordinance increasing the fines and prison sentences for dumping garbage or refuse in the township and postponed action on two other ordinances under consideration at the same time.

The township officials set next Wednesday, December 16, at 8 o'clock in the Army Reserve Training Center on the Fairfield Rd. as the time and place for a hearing on proposals to construct a sewer system for the Fairfield Rd., Windbriar Lane, Redding Lane area.

35 ATTEND MEET

Approximately 35 residents of the township attended Thursday's session and Supervisor Howard Waybright publicly expressed his appreciation to the visitors for "giving us the benefit of many good ideas during this meeting."

The "Dog Law," Ordinance No. 17, adopted Thursday prohibits anyone from allowing his dog to run at large in the township, provides for police to capture and impound any dog running at large and sets a fine of $10 and costs for each offense. When dogs are impounded, according to the ordinance, the owner is given 10 days to pick up his dog by paying the fine and costs, plus costs of keeping the dog during its impoundment. After 10 days the dog may be killed or sold. In case the owner fails to pay the fine and costs imprisonment of up to 10 days is mandated.

GARBAGE REGULATION

Ordinance No. 20 was adopted, which repeals Ordinance No. 1, but retains approximately the same wording prohibiting anyone from accumulating or dumping garbage, refuse "or other offensive or unwholesome matter" in the township. The new ordinance raises the fine from $25 to $100 and the imprisonment period from 10 to 30 days. The ordinance prohibits any private dump in the township and prohibits such things as throwing refuse in streams, etc.

Adoption of Ordinance No. 18 and No. 19 was postponed.

WITHHOLD ACTION

Ordinance No. 18 regulated the storage and accumulation of junk and provides for issuance of licenses for junk dealers and junk yards. The proposed ordinance had provided that all gasoline and oil must be drained from junked cars. Objection was made that such action would destroy the possibility of sale of some vehicles as used cars. The supervisors agreed to amend, before adoption, the regulation requiring removal of gasoline and oil from the cars, in order to permit gas and oil to be retained in certain vehicles under certain regulations.

Ordinance 19 prohibits "nuisances," covering numerous items that cause "injury, damage, hurt, inconvenience, annoyance or discomfort to any person in the legitimate enjoyment of his reasonable rights of person or property." Question was raised whether the ordinance would prohibit a landfill at the Gettysburg Shoe Co. for disposal of waste materials. The supervisors agreed to work out an amendment, before adoption, which would permit such landfills under regulations pertaining to inspection and following of state-approved practices.

At the meeting engineers' reports were presented showing that surveys and plans have been completed for a proposed sewer system in the Fairfield Rd.-Windbriar Lane-Redding Lane area. The supervisors then decided to hold a meeting in the training center next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock to outline the proposal to the residents of the area.

BULLETIN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)

A bomb exploded in front of the U.N. headquarters building today during a General Assembly speech by Cuba's Ernesto Che Guevara. Apparently it caused no damage and police quickly seized a man suspected of exploding it.

The blast could not be heard in the assembly hall, and Guevara continued his speech.

The explosion came as shouting, chanting Cuban exiles picketed across the street from the building. They were protesting the speech by Guevara.

Cuban Exiles Stage Protest At UN Speech

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—An explosion rocked the area of the U.N. Headquarters Building today while Cuba's minister of industry, Ernesto Guevara, was delivering a speech in the General Assembly.

At first police said the explosion went off in front of the building, but later they said it did not occur there.

As the explosion went off, a Cuban exile tried to drag down the Cuban flag flying in front of the headquarters building. The woman demonstrator was seized by police and U.N. guards.

The explosion came as shouting, chanting Cuban exiles picketed the building. They were protesting the speech by Guevara.

The blast could not be heard in the assembly hall, and Guevara did not interrupt his speech.

A police captain described the explosion as "a blast — not a noise bomb. The best information we have now is that it was detonated somewhere north and east of the U.N. building."

The captain said he could not say if anyone was hurt or apprehended.

Julius Swope, operator of the Swope Atlantic service station on Carlisle street, will open a similar Atlantic service station in the former McCauslin garage at the intersection of York and North Stratton streets, Thursday.

He plans to continue as operator of both stations, with a brother, Richard Swope, as manager for the York street establishment.

Frederick Rodgers, grandson of Mrs. Charles E. Weikert, 69 East Middle street, has been selected as a member of the Pennsylvania State college concert band, Mr. Rodgers, a junior at Penn State, is majoring in civil engineering.

A birthday surprise party was held recently for Doris Jean Witherow at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Witherow, 231 South Washington street. Those attending were Nancy Neth, Sandy Wolff, Elaine Wolfe, Peggy Norman, Vicki Maust, Dolores Burgner, Jane Warren, Jean Miller, Susie Cullison, Ann Cullison, Jane Reuning, Ava Yingling, Yvonne Settle, Rachel Trimpy, Barbara, Mary, Betty and Laura Witherow. Games were played and refreshments served.

The wilderness is creeping ever closer to Gettysburg. In addition to deer, squirrels, opossums and similar animals taking up residence in or near the town, the latest reports on wildlife indicate that a bobcat has joined the list.

Thomas Treher, National Park Warden, reported today having seen a bobcat on Hancock avenue near the Father Corby statue. Residents along the Fairfield road have also seen a wild cat. Treher described the cat as bigger than a domestic cat and smaller than a lynx.

Today's Talk*DEAD DAYS

Some people treat a day as they would handle a bag of peanuts. It comes and they say "Well another day!" And then they take a nibble at it, throw by the wayside a few shells — and the day is over — for them.

No matter how much blood you may have in your veins, if you treat a thing so precious as a day, with indifference, you have added as a terrible liability to your life — a dead day.

And, oh, how fast the days do go — into a strange eternity.

Suppose you use just, say, five per cent, of your stored ability and use only but ten per cent of the time of your day — if you persist upon this plan — no matter how long a life you may live, it is bound to be short indeed.

For the dead days crowd very fast — and before one is aware of the fact — life is dead!

I say that if this truism could prompt one man or woman today to a realization of what a day means — then how worth-while it shall have been and how happy the writer for having stated it.

A day is a proposition — and a very serious one, too. It doesn't have to be solved — it just has to be faced.

So, face your day — with a plan. And each day improve upon that plan.

Eliminate the leads of time caused by useless talk and pretty things. Attempt the jobs that look — big! And soon they do not look big at all. But, with the achievement of each of these tasks, do you, in ability and power, become bigger and bigger!

Each day is a very life affair as it comes, newly born to you. Refuse to deaden it, as far as you are concerned.

Just Folks*RIGHT

Things right live on.

Things that are wholly wrong

None can depend upon.

Girded however strong!

Blow down the tallest spires,

Shatter a million lives;

Soon or late evil fires,

Only the right survives.

Power in itself is vain,

Save it be rightly used;

Soon snaps the stoutest chain.

Weakened by being abused.

Batter at roof and wall

Till all be gone,

Even though millions fall

Right will live on.

Time sets all matters right,

Time and good men,

Truth outwits evil's might

Again and again.

Crushed and laid low and burned,

Backward far tossed,

Truth that has once been learned

Cannot be lost.

Johnson Takes Silent Path; Must Build 'Great Society'

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson can afford to stay mum for a while, and he is. Ever since he won the election the White House has been practically sound-proof, and this will probably go on into January.

This is enough to irritate anyone who can't get used to the great stillness around here. It is unusual, but Johnson seems to be playing it cool.

True, he has talked to businessmen about prosperity and how he wants to get along with them; he issued a statement on Viet Nam; and he had a two-day talk with British Prime Minister Wilson.

VAGUE STATEMENT
But he didn't say anything unexpected in his business talk besides urging bankers to keep their interest rate down. And the statement on Viet Nam was so vague no one could tell what he had in mind.

As for Wilson, the two men announced they had discussed a number of things and both were anxious to find solutions. But they didn't offer any.

Otherwise, the five weeks since election have been very quiet, with Johnson spending most of his time on his Texas ranch, having his aides and others fly down to see him.

SWITCH TO SILENCE
This is a switch from the way Johnson skipped around through most of 1963, before and during the campaign, making speeches and holding news conferences almost on the run.

He was always saying something, or doing something, a man in search of approval. But then, when he got such overwhelming approval in the election, it's no wonder if he felt silence would be appropriate for a time and for a change.

Yet the very quietude created a mystery, a wondering: What's he up to? Of all people, and intentionally, it was Sen. Barry Goldwater who helped create this condition.

Goldwater spent so much campaign time defending himself, particularly against the charge of being trigger-happy, that he did very little about saying exactly what he'd do if elected.

VAGUE CAMPAIGN
This was wonderful for Johnson. Since the polls already had him away out in front and Goldwater wasn't offering specific programs, Johnson didn't have to try to outbid with programs of his own.

This left him free to move and maneuver as he thought best at the time, picking and choosing among a lot of programs he might otherwise have had to pin himself to in the campaign.

In the meantime, being Johnson, the President has been busy behind the walls of the ranch-house and the White House preparing for next year when Congress comes back.

So, for all of these reasons, he probably will keep on not saying much until next month.

GREAT SOCIETY
This seems simple but what isn't simple is how he is going to make good on just about the biggest promise he made — and this was long before the campaign.

This was the promise of the "Great Society." It got a lot of attention when he mentioned it in speeches last April and May.

He will have four years to spell it out. But almost certainly sooner than that he'll have to spell out what he has in mind about foreign policy, a field much less familiar to him than domestic politics and problems.

If he follows the technique he used when he ran the Senate back in the 1950s, he'll probably soft-pedal his utterances on foreign policy until he has his chessmen all lined up.

He added that with a State Senate controlled by the Republicans and a State Legislature controlled by the Democrats, "Scranton has as bi-partisan a group as it is possible to get."

Smith said in a statement Thursday, said Scranton wanted to do it in November of 1963, when the legislature was reappointing the General Assembly seats.

The State Supreme Court has since declared the reappointment unconstitutional.

Smith said Scranton refused to consult with Democrats last year in his reappointment program, but now wants to appoint a bi-partisan committee to work something out.

Coal Group Cited For Reclamation

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A research group at the U.S. Bureau of Mines Safety Research and Testing Center in Pittsburgh was awarded a presidential citation Thursday for reclaiming strip mined land in Clearfield, Elk and Clinton Counties.

James Westfield, assistant director for health and safety activities of the bureau of mines, presented the award to Franklin E. Griffith, group leader of Coal Mine Fire Control Group, which undertook the research project.

Experimental methods were used in the project for abatement of stream pollution, sealing of mines, reduction of high walls and revegetation to make the land useable for agricultural, grazing and other purposes at reasonable cost.

BLOCKS MOVE TO STOP FIGHT

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Philadelphia judge has cleared the way for the middleweight championship fight between champion Joey Giardello and challenger Rubin (Hurricane) Carter to go on as scheduled next Monday night in Convention Hall here.

Common Pleas Court Judge Francis Shunk Brown Jr., denied an injunction Thursday to stop the fight, requested by Louis Duva, the Garden State Sports Corp., and Empire State Sports Corp. They contend that Giardello had agreed to give them exclusive promotional rights to the title bout, then signed with another promoter.

WTHREW BID
Giardello's attorney, Mike Delcollo, said that after conferring with Judge Brown, the complainants also agreed to withdraw their bid, in New Jersey, for a temporary restraining order against the fight. This agreement apparently removed the last threat to staging the bout.

As a showing of good faith, Delcollo said, Giardello, promoter Jimmy Riggio, and Nationwide Sports Promotions, Inc., agreed to deposit $25,000 in escrow with the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, pending the outcome of a suit planned by the complainant group.

The suit is to be heard later in Common Pleas Court here.

NEW FACES ON COLLEGE CAGE FIVES IN '64

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
There are a lot of new faces on the college basketball scene this season, such as Louie Dampier of Kentucky, Ron Sepic of Ohio State, Wes Bialosuknia of Connecticut, Bob Lewis of North Carolina and Nevil Shed of Texas Western.

You can add John Austin of Boston College to the list today. He's a junior, but his fame as a sophomore last season was confined mostly to New England.

He's headed for national recognition now since Boston College will depart shortly to play on the Pacific Coast and in the Rainbow Holiday Classic at Honolulu.

DEBUT IN GARDEN
Austin, a 6-foot-1 native of Washington, D.C., made his debut at New York's Madison Square Garden Thursday night and led the Eagles to their third straight triumph, a 102-84 conquest of NYU.

Austin scored 42 points on 14 of 25 shots from the field and 16 of 17 free throws. He got 16 of his points in last six minutes after the Violets, 14 points down, reeled off 13 straight points to climb within one at 72-71.

Billy Cunningham of North Carolina with 43 points, Larry Sheffield of Notre Dame with 37, Rick Barry of Miami, Fla., with 30 and Bob Verga of Duke with 24 also made the headlines on Thursday's slim national schedule.

SET SCORING MARK
Cunningham set an individual single-game scoring record for North Carolina as he led the Tar Heels to a 111-74 victory over Tulane at Chapel Hill. Sheffield paced the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame to their fourth straight home victory, a 107-86 trouncing of Detroit.

Barry upped his scoring output to 187 points in five games as the Hurricanes downed Niagara 74-67 at Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Verga led Duke to a 93-87 overtime victory over Navy at Baltimore.

Verga stole two Navy passes in the overtime period and converted them into baskets as the eighth-ranked Blue Devils downed the Middies after the regulation game ended 79-79.

Police Sergeant Is Accidentally Slain

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An auxiliary police sergeant was accidentally shot to death by his lieutenant Thursday night at a regular weekly meeting of the force, police officials reported.

The victim was Eugene Ruffin, 24, who had gone out to buy soft drinks for the seven members attending the meeting.

Auxiliary Police Lt. Henry Foster, 51, told investigators he had removed his pistol as Ruffin was re-entering the room.

Space Rocket Is Fired Into Orbit Today

By HOWARD BENEDICT

A.P. Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Atlas-Centaur space rocket registered a much-needed test flight success today, hurling its two-ton Centaur second stage and metal model of a moonship into a precise orbit around the earth.

The orbit, a circular path 103 miles high, is the course the Centaur stage must achieve on future unmanned moon and planetary launchings.

The success was the second in four test flights for the Atlas-Centaur. It heralded a possible end to problems which have harassed the rocket and have put it about three years behind schedule. Continued success might enable it to plant a Project Surveyor spacecraft on the moon late next year.

112-FOOT ROCKET

Packed in the Centaur's nose today was a 2,100-pound chunk of metal with the same weight and center of mass as the Surveyor. It was rigged with instruments to measure vibrations and temperature, but was not to separate from the Centaur stage.

The 112-foot tall booster rode away from Cape Kennedy at 9:25 a.m. EST on the power generated by the first stage Atlas. The Centaur upper stage, burning high-energy liquid hydrogen, fired for 5 1/2 minutes and drilled itself into the planned orbit.

This was the third successful space launching at Cape Kennedy in four days.

LAUNCH GLIDER

On Tuesday a space glider was launched on a suborbital flight to test techniques for future spacehips designed to maneuver and land like conventional aircraft.

Thursday the Air Force launched a Titan 3A military space rocket on a successful orbital flight.

The only black mark during the week was an attempt Wednesday to launch an unmanned model of the Project Gemini man-in-space capsule. The launching was frustrated at the last second because of trouble which forced shutdown of the engines after they had ignited.

The Atlas-Centaur accuracy today was made possible by flawless performance of an inertial guidance system which was steering the rocket for the first time. On previous shots, the guidance package was carried as a passenger and its potential performance monitored while a separate control system directed the course.

CWRT ANNUAL

"The first order of the provost marshal was to get men to clean up the place. The Adams Sentinel on July 7, 1863, carried this notice: 'To All Citizens: Men, horses and wagons wanted immediately to bury the dead and cleanse our streets in such a thorough way as to guard against pestilence. Every good citizen can be of use by reporting himself, at once, to Capt. W. W. Smith, acting provost marshal, office, N.E. Corner of Centre Square.'"

STREETS BARRICADED

The 4th Pennsylvania Cavalry coming in York St. on July 5, 1863, found its way blocked at the intersection of York and Hanover Sts. by a barricade of wagons, beds, mattresses, etc., placed by the Confederates across the street at that point. The cavalrymen reported the barricade as high as the top of the first stories of the house.

Wrecked equipment was scattered throughout the town. The Sentinel noted that the cannon and equipment of Battery B, of Rhode Island, "being worn out" were "sitting on Carlisle St."

WOUNDED IN HOMES

Every large building and many homes were filled with the approximately 20,000 wounded from the battle. While a general hospital was soon established, many of those in homes and public buildings, such as churches and the seminary and college, remained there until they could leave for their homes.

Two hundred members of the Christian Commission were housed in local homes and buildings to carry out their work of providing food and other aid to the wounded. "On top of that hundreds of parents, brothers and sisters came to Gettysburg to seek the remains of their dead. The town then had a population of about 2,300, and had to house and care for all these additional people. I wonder if we could do it today with all our motels?"

OPENED GRAVES

"The families coming here opened hundreds of graves of soldiers on the battlefield in search of their loved ones, until July 30 when the provost marshal clamped down and forbade any more opening of graves. The Sentinel reported one woman from Massachusetts opened 20 graves, before finding her husband in the 21st."

A letter was written by a number of Gettysburg men to Col. H. C. Allen, of the 36th Pennsylvania Militia, in August thanking him for "General Order No. 2" which forbade further opening of graves. The letter said, "The extensive and careless disinterment of the dead from our battlefields had become a great nuisance and very grave fears were entertained universally for the health of our people . . . if the practice of disinterment had continued, it would have produced widespread sickness and distress. Our atmosphere was that of a charnel house."

Mississippi

Mr. Barnette and we discussed various things . . . Here the battery of 14 defense attorneys interrupted with objections that the testimony was hearsay or second hand.

They argued that if Barnette had confessed, then he should testify. Owen countered that Barnette was a codefendant and his presence at the hearing had no connection with admissibility of the evidence. Owen said he was prepared to present "the signed confession to the commissioner."

RULED OUT

But Miss Carter ruled against him. There was more argument from both sides, and the defense attorneys asked for time to confer about their position on Barnette's statement.

The defendants, sitting in the jury box or adjacent to it, did not appear perturbed by the agent's testimony about a confession. Their attorneys returned to the courtroom to announce that they stood on their objection.

TURN TO JURY

After more argument and a noon recess, the commissioner reaffirmed her ruling for the defendants.

"We will simply not produce any more evidence," Owen said. He told the commissioner that in view of her decision the government case would be taken directly to a federal grand jury. The purpose of the preliminary hearing was to determine whether there was sufficient cause to hold the defendants for grand jury action.

Disclosure of the Barnette statement, which was described only as a confession, followed reports from federal sources that the government had eye-witnesses to the slayings. Barnette, who works for a packing company in Springhill, La., could not be reached. However, his attorney, Robert J. Donovan Jr., said his client said last Friday he had not made any statements about the crime. Contents of the purported confession were not disclosed.

WITHOUT PRECEDENT

In Washington, a Justice Department spokesman said that Miss Carter's refusal to accept the FBI agent's report was "totally without precedent." The defense attorneys said Miss Carter's action had the effect of exonerating their clients. They said they felt their clients had been treated unjustly by the federal government because of pressure on President Johnson and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover by integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"We think they are playing politics with the lives of these people," the defense attorneys said in a statement after the hearing.

FREEDOM, FREEDOM

Meridian police kept close watch on spectators outside the courtroom. Their was no trouble. A group of integrationists, including Mrs. Fannie Chaney, mother of one of the slain civil rights workers, staged a brief demonstration on the courthouse steps after the 19 men were freed.

They chanted, "freedom, freedom." One woman screamed, "Jesus, Jesus no," and fell to the pavement. Of the 21 white men arrested last week 19 were charged with criminal conspiracy in what the FBI described as a Ku Klux Klan plot to kill the civil rights workers—Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20, both white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, 21, a Meridian Negro. Their bodies were found Aug. 4 in a red clay dam near Philadelphia where they had gone June 21 to check on a burned Negro church. They had been jailed at Philadelphia on a speeding charge.

The other two defendants were charged with possessing knowledge of the crime and failing to report it to authorities.

SEEK PICTURES OF RESIDENTS FOR NEW BOOK

LITTLESTOWN—Neal F. Layser, publisher's consultant for The American Yearbook Company, met Tuesday evening with members of the historical program book committee of the Littlestown Bicentennial, Inc. at the Community Center. It had previously been announced that nonagenarians will be honored by having their photographs in the bicentennial book. This will include those who will reach the age of 90 by August, 1965. Pictures should be given to a member of the book committee.

Committee members attending Tuesday's meeting were Chairman Lloyd L. Stately, Kenneth K. Kroh, Fred K. King, Charles H. Boyd, Mrs. Atlee F. Rebert and Mary Altfelt.

It is hoped that the first draft of the book will be completed by the end of this month so that when the committee meets January 5 the book layout can be started. Anyone in the community or vicinity who has pictures or material pertinent to the history of the community and its environs, is asked to give it to a member of the book committee as soon as possible. Organizations contacted for information which has not yet been supplied, are also asked to complete their individual histories and submit them.

The executive committee of the bicentennial will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Community Center.

EAGLES TO HOLD KIDDIES' PARTY

LITTLESTOWN—The annual Christmas party for the kiddies of the community, sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Littlestown Aerie 2226, will be held Saturday, December 19, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the aerie home. Santa Claus will distribute treats to the children up to the age of 12 years.

The annual stag Christmas party for members will be held Thursday, December 17, at 8 p.m. at the aerie home.

The New Year's Eve party will be held Thursday, December 31, from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Eagles home. Hats and noisemakers will be furnished. No reservations, male guests or minors will be accepted.

The annual turkey banquet for members and their lady guests will be held Monday, January 12, from 5 to 9 p.m. at the home. Dues for 1965 are now payable to the secretary.

Members of the aerie and Ladies' Auxiliary will attend the meeting of F.O.E. District 14 Sunday afternoon in Lancaster.

Man Is Killed In N.J. Truck Crash

READINGTON, N. J. (AP)—Robert Zak, 28, of 66 School St., Natalie, Pa., was killed today when his flat bed trailer truck crashed into the rear of another tractor trailer on Route 22 in this Hunterdon County township, police said.

Zak was pinned in the cab for two hours until his body was removed. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

The other driver, Dale Stanton York, 45, of Pittston R. D. 1, Pa., was not injured.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Dr. Havilah Babcock, 66, author and educator, died Thursday.

K. Pendleton, Washington, D. C., author and lecturer. Mrs. Pendleton, who is sales manager for the Universal Dynamics Corporation, gave a humorous talk.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO GIVE FOOD TO AREA NEEDY

LITTLESTOWN—The Woman's Community Club attended an old-fashioned Christmas party at the farm home of the president, Mrs. Leroy W. Bish, near Gettysburg, Wednesday evening. The exterior and interior of the home was decorated. Santa was a visitor. The evening was spent playing games, stringing popcorn, pulling taffy and "visiting." Gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served.

The annual Christmas baskets for the less fortunate families of the community will be packed Wednesday morning, Dec. 23, and all members are asked to take their contributions of nonperishable foods or cash to the home of Mrs. Charles W. Weikert, 23 W. King St., by December 22. The committee in charge includes: Mrs. Emory W. Gitt, chairman; Mrs. Robert J. Eckenrode, Mrs. Holman L. Sell, Mrs. Paul R. Snyder, Mrs. William Snyder, Mrs. Beaven F. Hanlon, Mrs. Mabel Ampacker, Mrs. Herbert Matthews and Mrs. Walter S. Mehring.

ANTIQUE DISPLAY

The next meeting will be held January 27 at 7:45 p.m. in the social room of the Eagles home and members are invited to bring and display their own favorite antiques. A representative for Hess's antique shop will speak.

Committees for the January meeting are: Program, education department, Mrs. Marvin F. Breighner, chairman; Mrs. John H. Fleming, Mrs. Irvin R. Kindig, Mrs. Robert H. Miller, Mrs. George Shafer, Mrs. Monroe J. Stavelly, Mrs. Thomas E. Craig and Miss Edna Basehor; hostesses, finance committee, Mrs. Rebecca S. Ealy, chairman, Mrs. Paul E. Altoff, Mrs. Richard A. Little Sr., Mrs. Emerson F. Muller, Mrs. Leonard L. Potter and Mrs. Atlee F. Rebert.

The annual joint meeting with the Junior Woman's Club will be held Feb. 10, in the social room of the Eagles home.

Wednesday's committees included: Program, international affairs department, Mrs. Charles W. Weikert, chairman; Mrs. Wilbur A. Banker, Mrs. Claude E. Snyder, Mrs. Edgar W. Wisotzkey, Mrs. Edward H. Leister and Miss Glenna Place; hostesses, cheer committee, Mrs. George C. Dehoff, chairman; Mrs. Walter Shoemaker, Mrs. John Gentzler, Mrs. Edward T. Richardson, Mrs. C. Wayne Purdie, Mrs. John N. Sell and Mrs. Clarence Beachtel.

Note to new cooks: If that soft custard sauce looks a bit curdly when you remove it from the heat, beat it vigorously and it may smooth out.

AID SOCIETY HOLDS ANNUAL XMAS BANQUET

LITTLESTOWN—The annual Christmas banquet of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, near White Hall, was held Wednesday evening in Grace Lutheran Church parish hall, Two Taverns. Dinner was served to 61 members and their guests. The group was welcomed by Mrs. Mark A. Heiney and the invocation was offered by Mrs. Francis Dayhoff.

A brief business period was in charge of the retiring president, Mrs. John H. Hartlaub. The standing committees reported that $140.80 was realized through 1964 projects. Altar committees for 1965 were announced. Secret sisters for next year were chosen. The door prize went to Mrs. Hazel Chronister and Miss Patricia Spalding. The table centerpieces were presented to Mrs. Jacob M. Myers, Mrs. Heiney, Mrs. Hartlaub, Mrs. Daisy Bittle, Mrs. D. Elwood Breighner and Mrs. Junior T. Bittle.

SIX-ACT PROGRAM

The holiday program was presented in six acts with Mrs. Heiney as narrator and Mrs. Larry W. Crouse as pianist. The first act was a fashion show. Modeling clothes of designs over the past 100 years were Mrs. Oscar Bream, Mrs. Frances Dayhoff and Mrs. Percell L. Worley. Act two, "Before and After," Miss Connie Dayhoff as the bride, Mrs. Charles Schneider as the groom and Mrs. Elwood Breighner, the bride 10 years later. A kitchen band by the entire cast, with Mrs. Breighner as leader, formed the third act. The fourth act was "A Surprise Visit From the Minister," presented by Mrs. William L. Bense Jr., Mrs. Fred H. Hartlaub and Mrs. Schneider. "The Change in Dance" by Miss Beverly Hartlaub and Miss Jeanne Bense, doing the waltz, charleston and twist, formed the fifth act. The concluding act was "The Family at Christmas" with songs "Silver Bells" and "Bless This House" by the entire cast. Gifts were exchanged and secret sisters revealed.

The closing worship service consisted of the scripture reading, Mrs. Bense; reading, "At Christmas," Mrs. Worley; Nativity scene with Mrs. Dayhoff as Mary; group carols, accompanied by Mrs. Crouse, and candlelight service. The program was arranged by Mrs. Bense, chairman; Mrs. Worley, Mrs. Heiney and Mrs. Dayhoff.

The next regular meeting of the Aid Society will be held Wednesday, January 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the church. The hostess committee includes Mrs. Goldie Bittle, chairman; Mrs. Wesley Ambrose, Mrs. Harry Good and Mrs. Gerald Sponseller.

INJURY FATAL TO OLD ACTOR; STRUCK BY CAR

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Percy Kilbride, 76, the Pa Kettle of the movies, died early today at Chase Sanitarium.

He was injured in an auto accident Sept. 21 and underwent brain surgery at Good Samaritan Hospital in Hollywood Nov. 11.

Dr. Barkley Noble said Kilbride died at 12:45 a.m. of hardening of the arteries in the brain and terminal pneumonia. The doctor said he notified Kilbride's sister, Mrs. John L. Crowley of Los Angeles Thursday that her brother was failing fast.

Fame came in his later years to the hawk-nosed comedian with the song-song voice.

800 STAGE ROLES
He appeared in 800 stage roles, then made his movie debut in 1942. His roles were minor until he and Marjorie Main played a farm couple in "The Egg and I" in 1947.

The characters were lifted from the film and became the basis of the "Ma and Pa Kettle" series. They were immensely popular at the box office, and Kilbride and Miss Main were boosted from character roles to starring parts.

Kilbride was 61 when the series began. The Kettle films made a fortune for the studio, but Kilbride never struck it rich. Work was brief, taxes took too much, and he was type-cast as the back-country farmer.

HIT BY CAR

He retired at 65, lived largely on Social Security, and spent much time walking Hollywood Boulevard. A bachelor, he lived alone in a modest apartment.

On Sept. 17 he and an actor friend, Frank Belmont, 73, were hit by a car as they were crossing a Hollywood intersection. Belmont was killed. At first it was thought Kilbride escaped with minor head injuries.

But Nov. 11 he was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles for brain surgery. Later he was transferred to the sanitarium for recuperation.

Old Pittsburgh Hotel To Be Razed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Final details are being worked out for sale of the Penn-Sheraton Hotel in Pittsburgh to businessman John W. Galbreath.

Galbreath has signed an agreement to purchase the hotel for more than $7 million, but the transaction is still to be consummated.

He plans to raze the 48-year-

2 New Caucuses To Be Held Monday

HARRISBURG (AP) — Democratic organizational caucuses of the state Senate and House have been rescheduled for Monday afternoon, instead of 10 a.m. it was announced today.

Senate Democrats will convene at 2:30 p.m. to select their floor leaders, while Democrats of the House, where the party is in control, will meet a half-hour later at 3 p.m.

It was decided to delay the session because of a possible conflict with electoral college ceremonies in the House chamber at 12 noon.

TV PLANS 75 NEW PROGRAMS FOR NEXT FALL

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "That Was the Week That Was," referring to the latest Nielsen television ratings, noted that the three top shows were "Bonanza," a Western; "Bewitched," a comedy about a beautiful witch, and "Gomer Pyle," a country boy who joins the Marines.

"Today," continued the TV3 commentator, "87 pilot shows were started in Hollywood, each one about a bewitched cowboy who joins the Marines."

Truth is never too far from satire.

75 NEW PROGRAMS

This surveyor of the television scene has been keeping a file of plans for programs aimed at next season. It contains announcements of more than 75 new programs and is undoubtedly incomplete. This is the season when shows are being bought for next September.

With TV interest in the fantastic and eerie running high, I note a projected program called "My Mother, the Car," costarring a talking automobile; "The Ghost Breaker," with a hero who dehaunts houses; something called "The Haunted," and "Thompson's Ghost."

MEDICS FADE

The doctor fad seems to be waning, but in the works are a comedy about a pediatrician called "My Son, the Doctor," and "Daktari," about a veterinarian in Africa.

Usually more than 200 program ideas are developed beyond the blueprint stage each old structure and erect an office building.

Galbreath is president of the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club and a Columbus, Ohio, real estate firm.

KE SUGGESTS NEW GOP PLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower suggested Thursday a plan for two-man leadership of the Republican party, the New York Times said today.

Under the plan, the Times said, the national chairman would deal with organization, and a leader of equal status would serve as spokesman on policy issues.

The story also said in part:

In private conversations with friends about his meeting here Wednesday with Sen. Barry Goldwater and former vice president Richard M. Nixon, Eisenhower is reported to have said the Republican leadership crisis could be solved with the selection of "a strong, generally acceptable" figure like Ray C. Bliss of Ohio as national chairman, to replace Dean Burch. Bliss has been Ohio State Republican chairman since 1948.

Eisenhower also is said to believe that a "well-known, highly respected" Republican like former Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, keynote speaker at the 1960 GOP national convention, should be chosen as party spokesman.

Motorist Thrown From Car, Killed

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Louis Vadasz Jr., 23, Bethlehem, Pa., was killed here today when he was hurled from a car as it went out of control on a sharp turn.

Police said the accident occurred when the driver, Thomas Allen Smith, 18, also of Bethlehem, failed to make the turn. The car sheared a telephone pole, struck five cars on a used car lot, and came to rest against a second pole.

Smith and a third occupant of the car, Thomas Baab, 25, Bethlehem, were only slightly hurt.

UNIONS MEET IN FINAL TALKS TO END STRIKE

NEW YORK (AP) — United Auto Workers union (AFL-CIO) members meet in four states today and Saturday to consider a "final proposal" submitted by Mack Trucks Inc. to end a month-old strike.

Union negotiators already have said they agreed in principle on the Mack offer they are submitting to the membership. The apparently settled issues cover everything except vacations and holidays.

Asked if further negotiating sessions are scheduled after the current round of UAW meetings, a company spokesman said Thursday: "Such a meeting would serve no purpose since the company has given its final proposal."

The strike has idled 6,000 persons at Mack's installations at Allentown, Pa.; Bridgewater, N. J.; Cortland, N. Y., and Hagerstown, Md.

Mack has offered a one-week increase in vacations in the third year of the proposed new contract. It also has proposed to increase holidays from seven to eight in the second year and to nine in the third year.

On wages, Mack has offered hourly increases ranging from 15 to 25 cents spread over a three-year period. The present average in all plants was not available.

In addition, Mack said its Hagerstown employees are being offered an additional 21 cents an hour over the three years "to close the gap between their rates and those of the automotive truck industry."

The Mack statement said Allentown incentive workers receive 19 cents an hour more than the company's nearest competitor, and have received a cost-of-living increase of 2 cents an hour above that paid by the competition.

Scranton Foresees Big Expansion In Highway Construction In State

By JACK LYNCH
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton said today Pennsylvania will have to sharply increase highway construction, perhaps by as much as 40 to 50 per cent, to catch up on its needs in the next decade.

He disclosed in an exclusive interview that his administration is exploring new financing methods, including possibly heavy borrowing, for an ambitious program which envisions annual spending of $350 million a year.

Preliminary estimates by the State Highway Commission, which is now drafting a six-year priority road building program, indicate construction needs of $5 billion, exclusive of the interstate system.

LIMIT SPENDING

Experts, both in and out of state government, agree that the Highways Department, under its present structure, cannot spend any more than $250 million yearly.

In fact, spending has not yet reached that level. The highest total to date was the $229.9 million expended in 1962-63. Last year's figure was $215 million and this year's spending likely won't go above $240 million.

"I came to the conclusion late this summer that it was up to us to take Pennsylvania out of what it has been in for years, which is a maximum of $250 million, into a much higher rate and a much more expensive program in order to meet the future, or even the present needs, of the state," the governor said.

INCREASE STAFF

To get started the governor in September ordered the Highways Department to increase its technical staff and to step up planning for substantially higher construction within two years.

Scranton conceded the impact of these proposals won't affect him because his term expires in January, 1967.

"But," he said, "I don't want to leave this over to another governor without having any recommendations I can leave a charted financial course, and start the financing now."

Then, looking further into the future, the governor said:

NEED MORE FUNDS

"This is a little bit of talking in the clouds until I get everything in front of me, but I think you are probably going to have to get a financial setup that will allow for a construction of $350 million, or perhaps more, a year in the next decade in order to meet present needs. Now please don't misunderstand me, that is a figure taken out of the air."

Asked if this would require an increase in the gasoline tax, now 7-cents a gallon for the state and 4-cents a gallon for the federal government, the governor said:

ACUTE PROBLEM

"I think we have the means under the present taxing system to take care of the personnel problem. We don't have (the means) to take care of the construction program and that is why I think we are going to have to go into a borrowing program."

"I think the problem is so acute for the state as a whole that even deficit financing should be undertaken."

Scranton said he didn't want to go into depth on the possibility of a gas tax increase anytime soon, but he said several outside experts pointed out that New Jersey and New York have resorted to extensive use of tolls to build new roads.

"I don't like it (the toll system) very much, but maybe it is necessary. I don't know yet. Also, there may be a partial toll and a partial borrowing program that may well come out of this. I am frankly speaking into the air at the moment."

JENKINS MAY NOT TESTIFY IN BAKER CASE

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A doctor who has been treating Walter W. Jenkins has recommended strongly against having the resigned White House aide testify in the Senate Rules Committee's Bobby Baker investigation.

Jenkins, on a brief golfing holiday in San Juan, P.R., said Thursday: "I'll see after my stay here."

A letter from Dr. Leon Yochelson, a psychiatry professor at George Washington University Medical School here, to Rules Committee Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said Jenkins is suffering "a depressive reaction of the utmost gravity."

FEAR SETBACK

The letter, dated Dec. 4, said Jenkins was improving but warned that he "remains vulnerable to serious setback" if subjected to stress before he recovers fully. The doctor said he had recommended strongly that Jenkins not appear at the hearings, due to resume early next year.

The Rules Committee voted unanimously Wednesday to summon Jenkins to testify under oath. At the same time it decided to drop the sex and political angles that turned up during the Baker investigation.

Jordan said Thursday that so far as sex is concerned, nothing contained in two FBI files "related in any way to the official conduct" of any senator or Senate employee.

CITES BEAUTY

One of the FBI files, Jordan said, dealt with Ellen Rometsch, West German beauty who left Washington shortly before the committee began its year-old Baker investigation.

He said the other file was on an FBI investigation of accusations made in 1952 and 1953 by Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent and former associate of Baker who has been a key witness in the stormy Senate probe.

The committee's Democratic majority had concluded, Jordan added, that it had "no legal right to probe into the private conduct of individuals and, therefore, the committee should not engage in an investigation of matters referred to in these files."

PLAN ADDS 16 COUNTIES FOR INDUSTRIAL AID

By JACK LYNCH
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG (AP)—Sixteen more counties would become immediately eligible for state loans to attract new industries under a legislative proposal being prepared by the Scranton Administration, it was learned today.

In addition, a reliable source said, the governor will ask the 1965 legislature to add $1 million to the $12.5 million appropriation to the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority for loans in the current fiscal year and to increase total spending to $14 million next year.

CITY ELIGIBLE

The changes under consideration would make Philadelphia eligible for state loans for the first time.

Under present law, communities are eligible for loans of up to 40 per cent of the cost of an industrial development project if they have unemployment rates of 6 per cent or higher over a 36-month period.

Sources said the new plan would make eligible communities with unemployment rates as low as 4 per cent.

However, so as not to place high unemployment communities at a disadvantage in competing for new industry, the 4-6 per cent unemployment communities would be eligible for loans of up to only 30 per cent.

FIXED LOAN RATES

Interest rates, fixed by the PIDA board of directors, also would be scaled according to the unemployment rate of eligible communities.

The sources said the 6 per

Says U. S. Agrees To Increase Aid

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam announced today the United States has agreed to an across-the-board increase in aid in the war against the Communist Viet Cong and hinted that the war will soon be expanded outside this country.

"The U.S. government has offered additional military and economic assistance to improve the execution of the government's programs and to restrain the mounting infiltration of men and equipment by the Hanoi regime in support of the Viet Cong," a communique said.

Kitchen spatulas come with blades of various widths; at least one spatula with a narrow blade (about 3/4-inch) and one with a wide blade (about 2 3/4-inches) are necessary for a well equipped kitchen.

Norwegians are probably the world's champion cheese consumers. They eat nearly 20 pounds a year per person.

Unemployment communities would continue to get loans at a minimum of 2 per cent interest, while those below 6 per cent unemployment would be charged a minimum of 3 per cent.

Communities in these six counties would regain the eligibility they lost this year because unemployment rates dipped below six per cent: Bucks, Lehigh, Northampton, Monroe, York and Lycoming.

ADDITIONAL COUNTIES

These counties also would become eligible: Berks, Centre, Warren, Beaver, Chester, Lebanon, Cumberland, Delaware, and Dauphin.

In addition, seven other counties, now on the verge of losing their eligibility, would be protected. They are Fulton, Franklin, Adams, Mercer, Tioga, Bradford and Butler.

The only counties which would remain ineligible for the present are Montgomery and Lancaster, because their unemployment rates are below 4 per cent.

GOP LEADERS UNDECIDED ON BURCH OUSTER

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—There was no indication today of any strong shift for or against chairman Dean Burch in the ranks of the Republican National Committee since the GOP summit meeting.

And Burch himself tied his star to Sen. Barry Goldwater, saying if he is deposed it would be almost like reading Goldwater out of the GOP.

By far the majority of 132 committee members who replied to an Associated Press poll on whether they would give Burch a vote of confidence at Chicago Jan. 22-23 said they were undecided or keeping their own counsel.

CONDUCTS SURVEY

Burch himself was reported today to be trying to learn through telephone talks just how many committee members he could count on in a showdown.

There were contradictory reports on how the count was running. One source said that as of now Burch had enough backing to win a vote of confidence. Another source said Burch did not, and definitely did not have enough to be considered a mandate.

Burch, a protégé of the defeated GOP presidential candidate, expressed the opinion Thursday night that if he were forced to resign as party chairman "the implication would be that he (Goldwater) was no longer asked to support the party."

READY TO LEAVE

"Let's face it—the headline, if I were deposed in Chicago, would not be 'Dean Burch Deposed,' it would be 'Goldwater Rejected by the Republican Party,' and it's as simple as that."

Burch said in a CBS television interview aired on the Walter Cronkite program, "If I were satisfied in my own mind that my leaving would be beneficial to the party, would not be construed by the conservatives or the strong pro-Goldwater folks as a slap at them, then I would probably be packed and leaving."

As to the "Burch must go" demands that have sounded since Goldwater's defeat, Burch said he was the target only because "I'm supposedly a Goldwater man. Actually, it had been my understanding until recently that everybody was a Goldwater man during the campaign."

Of the 76 committee members who responded to the AP survey, 15 said they would give Burch a vote of confidence and 6 said they would vote against him. Fifty-five said they were uncommitted, wanted to keep an open mind, wanted to hear both sides of the story, wanted to consider alternatives to Burch or just weren't talking.

Young Motorist Too Trustworthy

SPRINGFIELD Mo. (AP)—

Police said Teresa Arline King, 16, gave this explanation of why her car collided with another car Thursday night:

She was driving with her lights off to see if other drivers would notice and blink their lights at her as a warning. She didn't see Luther H. Dugan making a left turn in front of

McAuliffe Leads Heroes Of Battle Of The Bulge On Its 20th Anniversary

By BEN PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Well, maybe 20 years is a long time to remember a battle; the blood, the guts and the glory.

It is even longer to remember the heroes, maybe . . .

But the heroes remember each other, the guy who was there when the chips were down.

So here they were, a few at least.

They had once worn the old wool O.D.—olive drab — and had hung a sign in Belgium's hub town of Bastogne reading: "Bastion of the Battling Bastards."

"NUTS" SAID YANK

When they were surrounded by Germans and called upon to surrender, their commanding officer, then Brig. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, penned a note which has become a part of U.S. history. He wrote: "To the German Commander: 'Nuts!'"

"— The American Commander."

They — maybe 20 or 25 middle-aged men — were attending a "special program commemorating the 20th anniversary of the Ardennes campaign: Battle of the Bulge, December 1944, sponsored by the George Washington Chapter, Association of the United States Army."

HANDFUL OF VETS

McAuliffe was present Thursday night with his handful of veterans, amid some 700 soldiers, mostly officers from the Pentagon. The Belgium ambassador, Louis Schevven, had come down from New York to express his nation's gratitude.

He said simply: "They were heroes, true heroes. We shall never — and I mean never — forget it."

Afterwards the one-time members of the 101st Airborne and a few members of Combat Command B, 10th Armored Division, sat through an Army-produced film, supposedly made during the battle at Bastogne.

COLD AND SNOW

Infantry appeared on the skyline with the snow as a backdrop to fire against the enemy.

Robert P. O'Connell, now an insurance salesman in Washington who enlisted at the age of 19 in Boston, sniffed audibly.

"There was cold and snow," he said, "but that picture must have been made with rear echelon troops. I can tell you this: Nobody, but nobody, stood up on the front lines at Bastogne."

While the meeting continued, it was hard to remember that precisely 20 years ago German tanks and troops were moving over straw matted roads toward the "quiet" area in the Ardennes. The straw was to muffle sound.

104-MILE FRONT

The attack came across a winding 104-mile front on Dec. 16. It was a battle as big as that at Stalingrad with over a million men involved eventually. It was made under cover of fog, a fog that was not to lift for good until Dec. 24.

At Bastogne, half frozen men, short on rations and ammunition, fought the pride of the German army to a standstill. As long as Bastogne held out and could be resupplied, it was a threat to German communications.

And it did hold out, while the whole nation settling down for its Christmas holiday, cheered that scornful rejection of the German ultimatum: "Nuts!"

The cheers have grown frowner and a whole generation has grown up to which Bastogne is a history lesson.

The program ended. The men who were at Bastogne drifted out, unnoticed by the chatting Army officers.

AUTO OWNERS MUST DISPLAY REGULAR TAGS

HARRISBURG (AP) — Other states may allow motorists to display the new presidential inaugural auto license plates in place of state tags — but not Pennsylvania.

Gov. Scranton said Thursday night he had no objection to the displaying of the inaugural plates on Pennsylvania cars as long as state tags are displayed properly.

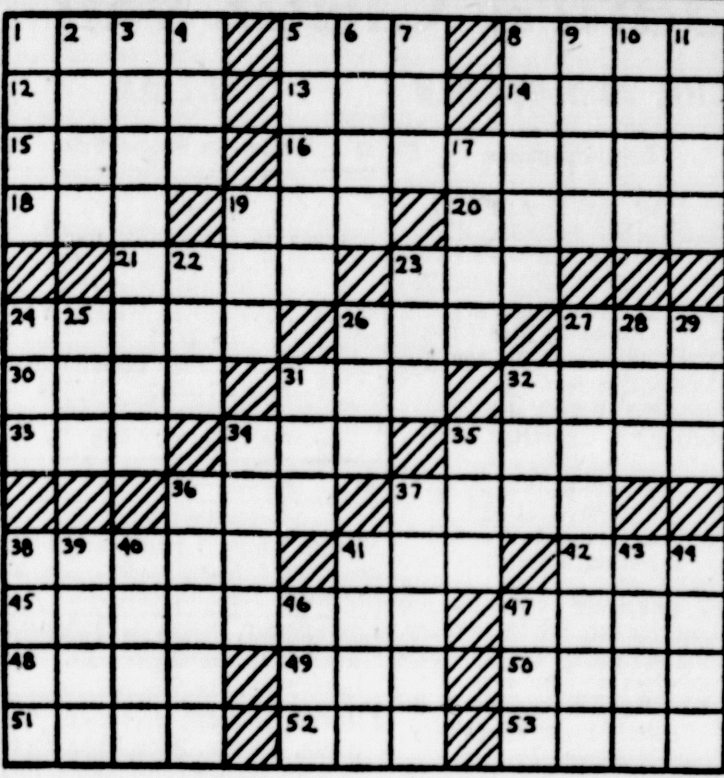

"I understand that legally the Pennsylvania plate may not be removed, but this special plate may be displayed along with the regular one," the governor stated.

The statement came after Dale Miller, chairman of the Presidential Inaugural Committee in Washington, said he understood that Pennsylvania was one of two states prohibiting use of the inaugural plates as substitutes for regular tags. The other state listed by Miller was South Dakota, although Iowa authorities said they also would not authorize the special plate.

L. T. Bernard, director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Motor Vehicles, said out-of-state cars passing through the state displaying nothing but an inaugural plate would be considered registered in the District of Columbia.

A Pennsylvania motorist who removes his regular plate and substitutes an inaugural plate would be breaking the law, Bernard said.

May Shift 150,000 Army Reservists To Guardsmen

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was reported today to have approved a drastic streamlining that would shift 150,000 Army reservists and their units into the National Guard.

Some 150,000 more reservists would be dropped into a manpower pool to be tapped for reinforcements in emergencies.

As a practical matter, the Organized Army Reserve would cease to exist.

Backup for the 16-division regular Army would be concentrated in an expanded 550,000-man National Guard.

The keynote is readiness.

ALERT FOR CRISES

All guard units would be built into well-equipped, well-drilled outfits in condition to be used within 60 days or so of their call for cold war or limited war crises.

To this end, 21 low-priority, understrength and under-equipped National Guard and Reserve divisions would be abolished and reconstituted as high priority, reinforced brigades within the Guard.

It is estimated that about $100 million can be saved in the first year, eventually perhaps up to $250 million annually. Much of this would be plowed back into buying more modern equipment and arms for the Guard.

OTHER PLANS

A similar reorganization that would combine the Air Force Reserve and Air Guard is in the cards, but details have not been worked out.

The major streamlining — second in two years — stems from McNamara's belief that the present Reserve-Guard structure is cumbersome and wasteful.

It also grows from his conviction that there is no reason to retain elements that cannot be ready with reasonable swift-

Barring a hitch, the Defense Department is expected to announce the controversial moves soon, perhaps Saturday.

BRIEF SOLONS

Information on the plan came from congressional sources. Key members of Congress have been briefed on it.

Pentagon officials refused to talk with newsmen about the matter.

This, in broad outline, is the way the new reorganization will stack up, sources said:

The current 400,000-man Guard would be swelled by about 150,000 men from the organized Army Reserve. The other 150,000 reservists now drawing drill pay would go into the manpower pool that would total about 450,000 men available to fill out units or create new ones in time of need.

This would reduce over-all drill pay strength from 700,000 to 550,000. But where only about two-thirds of the 700,000 now are in high-priority units, the 550,000 all will be in such units. A high-priority unit is one allotted 80 per cent of full strength and 100 per cent of its equipment. It is expected to be in top shape.

and 6 Reserve divisions, all now given low priority on men and equipment and unlikely to be of much use in less than a year from callup, would be reorganized into high-priority Guard brigades of perhaps 6,000 men.

Of these 21 brigades, a total of 16 would be assigned to fill out priority guard divisions. There are eight such divisions, which have important roles in war plans.

INDEPENDENT UNITS

The remaining five new brigades would be independent, along with 11 other such groups in the present priority force, and available for less-than-division-size tasks.

Thirteen reserve training divisions, essentially paper outfits with only about 3,000 men assigned to each, would go into the Guard structure. These divisions would come to life only in a general mobilization and would be filled out with draftees, volunteers and men from the reserve pool.

Fourteen Army corps headquarters would be abolished. Their main duties are to supervise the reserves.

pointed out that compulsory attendance at Mass had been dropped by the administration recently because "it is a personal obligation . . . if we told them to go, that would just be super-added and superfluous."

Melvin J. Sykes conducted Sister Rosemary's cross-examination for the plaintiffs. He asked her whether it was true that "you require a total of 28 hours in theology and religion, and it's an arithmetic fact that that is equivalent of what is required for a major."

Sister Rosemary agreed, but emphasized that the religion requirement was in a basic course, and that the 30 hours required in a major subject were added on to basic requirements in that subject.

"FOUR OR FIVE"

Asked how many non-Catholics now attend St. Joseph, she replied, "Four, I think four or five."

Asked whether the St. Joseph catalogue was "an invitation to non-Catholic" applicants, she said, "No, it's definitely not."

Mr. Sykes then turned to the by-now familiar list of controversial points, on which the plaintiffs have queried all the school defendants as to their "permissibility" as teaching matter.

Sister Rosemary conceded that the advocacy of therapeutic abortion, divorce, mixed marriage, artificial birth control would all be barred at St. Joseph.

She did, however, argue that St. Joseph teaching about the Reformation and Martin Luther might not take an exclusively Catholic slant, pointing to the new atmosphere and interpretations of church history coming out of the current Vatican council.

QUESTION ABOUT PLAY

When Mr. Sykes offered a question about the controversial play, "The Deputy," by Rolf Hochmuth, Judge O. Bowie Duckett interrupted the testimony to say, "I don't think it matters whether these institutions teach good religion or bad religion. The only thing is whether they're religious institutions."

Other witnesses for St. Joseph today were Richard M. Plant, instructor in English and Sister Aloysia Dugan, chairman of the nursing division.

CHARGED WITH CHILD NEGLECT

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mrs. Vera Schoofield, 23, identified by police as the mother of two children killed in a fire here, has been charged with child neglect.

Mrs. Schoofield faces a hearing today.

Police said Marcella Schoofield, 3, and her two-month-old sister, Twana, died Thursday in the fire that wrecked a third-floor room of their home in North Philadelphia.

A third sister, Yvett, 2, was listed in critical condition with second and third degree burns over 40 per cent of her body, at St. Christopher's Hospital for Children.

Only the third-floor room of the house was ablaze when firemen arrived.

Police found no one else in the building at the time.

Police said they didn't find the mother until three hours after the tragedy. They said the children were left unattended for about five hours.

The house is just two doors from the site of a similar structure where fire took the lives of four children in January, 1963.

Did Geology Of Region Have Some Influence On Battle Of Gettysburg?

Avid Student Tells About "Gettysburg Sill" About "180 Million Years Ago"

By ANDREW BROWN
Avid Student of Civil War History
U.S. Geological Survey,
Washington, D. C.

EACH YEAR thousands of sight-seers clamber over Little Round Top and Devil's Den on the Gettysburg Battlefield, and gaze with awe over the mile of treeless plain across which Pickett's men charged toward "the little clump of trees" on July 3, 1863. All are impressed by the rocky heights — the Round Tops, Cemetery Ridge, Cemetery Hill, and Culp's Hill — against which Lee's men hurled themselves in vain through-out three days of bitter fighting. Few, however, know that these heights are the outcrop of a diabase sill, appropriately enough called the Gettysburg sill, that about 180 million years ago intruded the Triassic sandstones and shales that floor the broad Gettysburg plain. Even fewer have any concept of the extent to which the movements of the two armies toward Gettysburg, and the battle itself, were influenced by the geology of the region in which the campaign was conducted.

15 SQUARE MILE AREA

The Gettysburg battlefield covers an area of about 15 square miles. The battle, however, was but the climax of a campaign that covered an area of about 11,000 square miles. This area is approximately 140 miles long — from Fredericksburg on the Rappahannock River in Virginia to Harrisburg on the Susquehanna River in Pennsylvania — and 80 miles wide — from a line drawn on the southeast through Fredericksburg, Washington and Baltimore, to the northwestern edge of the Great Valley of Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania. A further idea of the immensity of the military effort that reached its culmination in Pickett's Charge is gained from the mere fact that the campaign started on June 3 at Fredericksburg, reached its climax on July 3 at Gettysburg, and did not end until the Confederate army recrossed the Potomac into Virginia on July 14.

At the time of the Civil War the science of geology was young, and military geology, as the term is understood today, was years in the future. Yet the principles of military geology, applied or all too often not applied, influenced decisively the outcome of more than one campaign. The Gettysburg campaign is an excellent example of intelligent use by commanders of both armies of terrain and topography and, therefore, of geology.

THE ADVANCE TO GETTYSBURG

June 3 to June 30, 1863

The region in which the Gettysburg campaign was conducted falls into four roughly parallel bands. From southeast to northwest: these are the Piedmont proper; the Triassic basins, including the Culpeper Basin in Virginia and Maryland and the Gettysburg Basin in Maryland and Pennsylvania; the Blue Ridge of Virginia and its continuation, South Mountain, in Maryland and Pennsylvania; and the Great Valley, including approximately the northern half of the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia, the Hagerstown Valley in Maryland and Pennsylvania, and the Cumberland Valley in Pennsylvania. Each of these four regions played a distinctive role in the Gettysburg campaign.

After the campaigns of 1862 the Confederates went into winter quarters on the south bank of the Rappahannock River, the Union armies on the northern bank. The Rappahannock and its tributary, the Rapidan, which joins it about 10 miles west of Fredericksburg, flow eastward across the entire 50-mile width of the Piedmont in steep, easily defended valleys, and were in effect the outermost defense line of Richmond. In this area the Piedmont rises from approximate sea level at Fredericksburg, Washington and Baltimore, to about 400 or 500 feet near the Blue Ridge. The exposed rocks, mostly of Precambrian age, are granite, gabbro, and hornblende gneiss in the southeastern part and the Wissahickon Schist in the northwestern part of the Piedmont. The rocky roads of this region of ridges and ravines were hard on men, animals, and equipment, so were to be avoided by the armies of the sixties. To use a term coined later by military geologists, the "trafficability" of the roads was poor. Although the Gettysburg campaign started in the Piedmont, both armies left it as soon as possible.

EARLY UNION LOSSES

At Fredericksburg in December, 1862, and at Chancellorsville in May, 1863, Union armies attempted, with disastrous results, to breach the Confederates' river lines. After his great victory at Chancellorsville Gen. Robert E. Lee, commanding the Confederate Army of Northern Virginia, decided to invade Federal territory.

He built up his army to a strength of 70,000 to 80,000 men (exact figures are impossible to obtain) and about 250 pieces of artillery. He divided his infantry into three corps of about 20,000 men each: the First Corps was commanded by Gen. James A. Longstreet; the Second Corps by Gen. R. S. Ewell, and the Third Corps by Gen. A. P. Hill. The cavalry, about 10,000 strong, was commanded by Gen. J. E. B. Stuart.

Facing the Confederates across the Rappahannock was the Union Army of the Potomac, about 100,000 strong, commanded by Gen. Joseph A. Hooker. Hooker had about 350 pieces of artillery; his infantry was divided into seven corps, each approximately half the size of a Confederate corps; his cavalry, commanded by Gen. Alfred Pleasonton, was about 13,000 strong.

NEEDED FOOD, HORSES

Lee's reasons for invading the North were political, military and economic. Politically, the prospect of European intervention on the side of the Confederacy would be greatly enhanced by a decisive victory on northern soil. The military objective was the capture of Harrisburg, the capital of Pennsylvania. With Harrisburg in his hands Lee could threaten Philadelphia, Baltimore or Washington as circumstances might make advisable, and he could also cut the Pennsylvania Railroad, a vital supply line for the Union armies. Such a campaign was a sound if bold concept, particularly as Lee counted on outmarching the Army of the Potomac and meeting with no opposition except that of militia.

The economic reason for the campaign had to do with such mundane things as food, forage, horses, shoes — in fact almost everything an army needs except ammunition, with which the Confederates were well supplied. The Confederate commissary system, never good, had so broken down that the army had no alternative but to "live off the country" — not in the friendly Shenandoah Valley, but in the hostile Hagerstown and Cumberland Valleys.

The Gettysburg campaign began on June 3, 1863. On that day Ewell's Corps of the Army of Northern Virginia left Fredericksburg, marching by way of Culpeper toward the Blue Ridge and the Great Valley. A glance at the map might give the impression that the Confederate commander was taking a roundabout route to Harrisburg, but it was in fact the only practicable road. Lee, outnumbered as he knew he was, could not hope to drive the Union army northward and across the Potomac by a frontal attack, but the situation was almost ideal for a flanking movement. Using the Blue Ridge as a barrier, and marching in the wide, fairly level Great Valley, the Confederates were not only safe from attack but to a surprising degree safe from observation. The Blue Ridge and the Valley, therefore, were the keys to Lee's strategy.

EXTENDED RANGES

In Virginia the Blue Ridge is high and rather narrow, formed of tightly folded and metamorphosed quartzite and volcanics, gneiss and other resistant rocks mostly of early Paleozoic age. The crest of the ridge drops from about 4,000 feet south of Thornton Gap to 1,500 feet at the Potomac, where it is known locally as Loudon Heights. An extension, Elk Ridge, continues about 10 miles into Maryland; the southern end of Elk Ridge is known as Maryland Heights. At the Potomac River the main ridge is off-set about three miles to the east, and an extension, Short Mountain, continues for about 10 miles into Virginia. Near the Maryland-Pennsylvania State line a spur of South Mountain, the Catoctin Range, swings eastward and southward into Virginia, passing a few miles west of Frederick, Maryland. The Bull Run Mountains in Virginia are an interrupted extension of the Catoctin Range.

South Mountain in Pennsylvania and northern Maryland is wider and more complex in structure than the Virginia Blue Ridge, though it is formed by the same rock types. Altitudes of the crest in that region range from about 1,500 feet at the Potomac to 2,000 feet near Carlisle.

IMPORTANT RIDGE GAPS

Of military importance equal to the Blue Ridge and South Mountains were the gaps which, so to speak, are the doors in the mountain wall. The only water gap in the area of the Gettysburg campaign is at Harpers Ferry, where the Potomac River cuts through the mountains. The Harpers Ferry gap, however, is commanded by Loudon Heights, Maryland Heights, and the high ground west of Harpers Ferry, and therefore was of little military significance. The only places where the armies of the sixties could cross the mountains were the wind gaps, eight of which influenced the campaign. From south to north, these are Manassas Gap, Ashby's Gap, and Snickers Gap in Virginia; Crampton's Gap and Turners Gap in Maryland; Fairfield (or Monterey) Gap near the Maryland-Pennsylvania State line; and Cashtown Gap and Carlisle Gap in Pennsylvania. Altitudes of these gaps range from 600 feet at Manassas Gap to 1,400 feet at Cashtown Gap. The Virginia and Maryland gaps are of erosional origin; Fairfield, Cashtown and Carlisle Gaps in South Mountain were formed by a combination of faulting and erosion.

After it became apparent, on June 15, that the Union army was moving northward and not toward Richmond, Longstreet's and Hill's Corps of the Army of Virginia followed Ewell's Corps across the Blue Ridge into the Great Valley using the three Virginia gaps, and thence northward. Lee's concentration area, in and around Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, was reached between June 24 and June 28.

In the Gettysburg campaign area the Great Valley is from 10 to 20 miles wide and averages about 15 miles. It is underlain by limestone and shale, mostly of Ordovician age, and results from the incompetent nature of these formations as compared to the harder ridge-forming quartzites on either side. In Virginia and West Virginia the valley drains northward through the Shenandoah River into the Potomac. The divide north of the Potomac is a few miles north of Chambersburg, standing at an altitude of about 650 feet. From that area the Hagerstown Valley is drained by Conococheague Creek, which flows into the Potomac at Williamsport, Maryland. The Cumberland Valley drains northeastward into the Susquehanna at Harrisburg through Conodoguinet Creek.

TRAFFICABILITY GOOD

The Great Valley was and is a fertile region, from which the Confederates, once across the Potomac, impressed a vast quantity of supplies of all kinds. Because of the gentle grades and deep soil the trafficability of the valley roads was good, and the Confederates reached Chambersburg in excellent condition.

Lee's selection of Chambersburg as a concentration point was based on the geology of Cashtown Gap. The other gaps in the northern part of South Mountain are narrow and tortuous; but Cashtown Gap, through which U.S. Highway 30 now runs, owes its existence and character to a great cross-fault, the Cashtown fault, which offsets the topographic crest of the main ridge of South Mountain about three miles. Erosion has carved in the fault zone an almost straight pass about eight miles long, the highest point in which is a ridge less than a mile wide between the headwaters of Conococheague Creek on the west and Marsh Creek on the east. Of the eight passes that figure in the Gettysburg campaign, Cashtown Gap was the only one through which it was possible to move expeditiously a large force with artillery and wagon trains. By concentrating west of this gap Lee was able not only to protect his communications to the south, but to move either east or northeast over easy roads.

LEE'S MOVEMENT SCREENED

Lee held the initiative throughout his movement toward Gettysburg, and therefore movements of the Union army were dictated by those of the Confederates. The march across the Blue Ridge and into the valley was so well screened by Stuart's cavalry that for a time Hooker had little idea of where the Confederate army was or where it was going. He did, however, move slowly northward in the Culpeper Basin, and on June 25 crossed the Potomac. He then moved up the valley of the Monocacy River to Frederick, sending three of his infantry corps to cover Crampton's and Turners gaps in South Mountain against a possible attack on Washington from that direction.

The exposed rocks in the Culpeper and Gettysburg basins are sandstone and shale that were deposited in Triassic time in the down-tilted western part of the Piedmont which abuts the Blue Ridge and South Mountain. In late Triassic time these sediments were intruded by sills and dikes of diabase. As the roads generally avoided the diabase outcrops, trafficability across the Triassic sediments was good, much like that in the Great Valley. Like the Confederates, the Union troops took advantage of geologic conditions to expedite their movements.

STUART DIVERTED

A critical day in the Gettysburg campaign, and possibly its turning point, was June 28. On that day two of Lee's three corps were concentrated in the Chambersburg area. Two divisions of the third corps, Ewell's, were at Carlisle, threatening Harrisburg from the west. The other division was at York, where it was in a good position to move toward either Harrisburg or Baltimore. From Lee's standpoint the campaign was progressing favorably except for one fatal lack: the usually dependable Stuart, instead of keeping his cavalry between the Confederate and Union armies, had started a raid toward Washington, east of the Potomac and, as far as Lee was concerned, was lost. Because of Stuart's unaccountable absence, it was not until the night of June 28 that Lee learned from a spy that the Union army had crossed the Potomac and was concentrated around Frederick. He therefore recalled Ewell's troops from Carlisle and York, and moved Hill's Corps through Cashtown Gap to Cashtown, to be in position to meet the Union threat.

General George G. Meade, commanding the V Corps, was awakened at 2 a.m. on that same June 28, and told that he had been named to succeed Hooker as Commander of the Army of the Potomac. Meade, assuming command under most disadvantageous circumstances, acted promptly. He recalled the three corps from Crampton and Turners Gap, and sent cavalry through Turners Gap to ascertain the Confederate position around Chambersburg. Knowing that Confederate troops were at Carlisle and York, Meade moved his headquarters to Taneytown, and sent his engineers to select a strong defensive position, which later was to become known as the Pipe Creek line. He then sent three infantry corps, preceded by a strong cavalry screen, toward the town of Gettysburg, while the other four corps moved northeast and took position behind Pipe Creek. Both movements were made on the basis of the geology of the areas concerned.

The Gettysburg Basin, from its southern end near Frederick, westward to the Blue Ridge, is a wide, fairly level plain, except for the diabase outcrops. The town of Gettysburg, on this plain, was the hub from which radiated 10 roads. Such was the road pattern that the Confederates, whether they came from Cashtown, Carlisle, or York, had no choice but to pass through Gettysburg. It was for that reason that Meade sent almost half his army toward that little town.

PREFERRED PIPE CREEK

Meade, however, did not want to fight at Gettysburg, desiring a stronger position. The line which he selected, generally known as the Pipe Creek or Westminster line, might be better described as the Parris Ridge line. Parris Ridge, in the western edge of the Piedmont, extends northeast and southward through Westminster. It forms the divide between the Monocacy River drainage on the west and the direct drainage to the Chesapeake Bay on the east. The ridge near the Pennsylvania-Maryland State line stands at more than 1,000 feet above sea level, and at Westminster about 800 feet; this compares with the usual Piedmont elevations of 400 to 500 feet. Pipe Creek, flowing through the Triassic Basins north of the ridge and into the Monocacy River, is not particularly formidable, but Parris Ridge, to the east, upheld by highly resistant schists and quartzites, has not only height, but widths of 4 to 10 miles that could have been fortified into an almost impenetrable defensive position.

Although Meade never used his Pipe Creek line, his choice shows his good eye for geology and topography. Circumstances beyond his control brought the two armies together at Gettysburg.

THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG

The Battle of Gettysburg was essentially an effort by the Confederates to drive the Union army from the outcrop of the Gettysburg sill south of the town of Gettysburg. This outcrop is shaped like a fishhook extending northward about three miles from Round Top through Little Round Top and Cemetery Ridge to Cemetery Hill, then east and south to the barb of the fishhook, Culp's Hill. Round Top stands at 785 feet above sea level, Little Round Top at 650 feet. Between Little Round Top and Cemetery Hill, the ridge drops to about 570 feet. For comparison, the elevation of the town of Gettysburg is about 500 feet. Seminary Ridge, the Confederate position on the second and third days of the battle, stands throughout most of its extent at about 560 feet, but rises northward to 650 feet at Oak Ridge. Seminary Ridge is the trace of a diabase dike that apparently is an offshoot of the westward-dipping Gettysburg sill.

One of the peculiarities of the Battle of Gettysburg is that the Northern armies moved to the battlefield from the south, the Southern armies from the north. The battle started, almost by accident and certainly against the wishes of both Lee and Meade, on the morning of July 1. General A. P. Hill, thinking the town was held only by militia, authorized two brigades to move into the town and obtain a supply of shoes reported to be there. The two brigades were speedily disillusioned; once across Willoughby Run they encountered dismounted cavalry and artillery, which they drove back about a mile. Then they met two infantry corps that had just reached the field and were themselves driven back. In the meantime, the remainder of Hill's Corps and all of Ewell's Corps were pouring into Gettysburg over the Cashtown, Carlisle, Harrisburg and York roads. During the afternoon these troops drove the outnumbered Federals through the town of Gettysburg and to the base of Cemetery and Culp's Hills. Then occurred the first of a series of almost inexplicable Confederate blunders that marked the course of the battle. The Southerners were flushed with victory, the Union troops badly beaten, and enough of the long July daylight remained to storm the hills, which could not be protected by entrenchments because the diabase was practically at the surface. Yet Ewell, who up to that time had performed ably and even brilliantly as a corps commander, made no move to attack, and the opportunity was lost. During the night the positions were reinforced so strongly that later efforts to take them failed.

RACE FOR FIELD

Once the battle had started, the next phase was a race for the field by both armies. Of the Confederates, Longstreet's Corps, except Pickett's Division, reached Gettysburg early on July 2; Pickett arrived about 24 hours later. On the Union side, Meade moved all his infantry, except the VI Corps under General John Sedgwick, to the field by the morning of the 2nd; Sedgwick arrived late in the afternoon. Thus, on the second day of the battle the Federals outnumbered the Confederates, reversing the situation on the first day. Meade himself reached the field about 2 a.m. on the 2nd, after having sent General W. S. Hancock of the II Corps to reconnoiter the situation. Hancock reported that the Union position at Gettysburg was strong, though it could be turned rather easily, and recommended that, as the battle had already begun, it be fought out there.

LEE AT SEMINARY RIDGE

On July 2 Lee took position along Seminary Ridge and launched a series of attacks against the southern end of the Union line — the Round Tops, Devils Den, a mass of diabase boulders facing Little Round Top across Plum Run, became the scene of bitter fighting. After the Confederates had taken Devils Den, they used sharpshooters, sheltered by the huge boulders, to pick off troops on Little Round Top, throughout much of the day. Partly because Longstreet's Corps was late in starting, the attack on the Round Tops was only partly successful and the southern end of the Union line was not turned as it might have been. On July 3, Lee, having attacked the Union right and left flanks, attempted to break the center by a charge led by Pickett's fresh division. The charge failed, partly at least because it was not supported on either flank, and the Battle of Gettysburg ended with the Federal army holding its position.

Almost until its end the battle could have gone either way. Lacking the services of the redoubtable "Stonewall" Jackson, dead these two months, and in the absence of Stuart, Lee did not have his army under full control until July 2 and admittedly fought his worst battle. Meade, sound and methodical, won because he handled the Army of the Potomac better than it had been handled by any previous commander. It is ironic that for this achievement he has received more blame than praise.

MEADE CRITICIZED

Meade has been criticized for preferring to fall back to his Pipe Creek line before meeting Lee. His reasoning was sound, however, for, as Hancock had reported, the heights could be turned. If Ewell on July 1 and Longstreet on July 2 had done what they should have done, Meade's forces would have been outflanked, and there is good reason to believe that, had not the Confederate command system broken down, Meade would have been driven from the Gettysburg position. If that had happened, he would have had no choice but to fall back on his Pipe Creek line. The Union position at Gettysburg had another weakness that became more and more evident as the battle progressed; owing to the geology, it could not be entrenched. The resistant diabase sill is so close to the surface that it was impossible for the soldiers to "dig in," and what little protection they could obtain was provided by existing stone walls, outcrops of rock such as Devils Den, and isolated boulders. The Union Army, because of the inability to entrench its position, suffered heavy losses of 25,000 men killed, wounded and missing, whereas the attacking Confederates lost only a little more than 20,000 men. It is almost an axiom of infantry warfare that an attacking army must expect heavier losses than a defending force, which ordinarily will be entrenched; yet at Gettysburg the defenders lost more, both actually and proportionately, than the attackers. Unlike the Gettysburg line, Meade's preferred position on Parris Ridge behind Pipe Creek could have been effectively entrenched.

THE RETREAT

July 4 to July 14

Throughout July 4 the two badly mauled armies faced each other across the field of Pickett's Charge, burying their dead and succoring their wounded. Meade did not attack, though the Confederate position, like the Federal, could not be entrenched to any appreciable degree. The Confederates wounded and supply trains were sent westward through Cashtown Gap, while the main army prepared to retreat through South Mountain at Fairfield Gap. On the 5th the Federals followed, but decided that Fairfield Gap could not be forced. Accordingly, Meade sent his infantry south to Frederick and into the Great Valley through Turners Gap. Lee won the race to Williamsport, where he planned to cross the Potomac. There he fortified a strong line east of the town, anchored on the Potomac and on Conococheague Creek. Meanwhile the river had risen, and it was not until the night of July 13-14 that the Confederates were able to cross on rebuilt bridges. Meade, who had planned to attack the Confederate works on the 14th, marched in to find empty fortifications. He crossed the river and followed Lee south, and within a matter of weeks both the Army of Northern Virginia and the Army of the Potomac were just where they had been on June 3 — facing each other across the Rapidan River.

SEEK TO VOID SUIT AGAINST J. J. HALUSKA

EBENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Cambria County Court will hear arguments Jan. 5 on a petition to dismiss an indictment on a criminal libel charge returned this week against State Sen. John J. Haluska.

Haluska's counsel filed the petition Wednesday. Counsel earlier had asked for dismissal of the charge before it went to the grand jury but the court refused.

The charge was filed Nov. 5 by State Rep. Richard J. Green, a Republican, who defeated Haluska in the senate race Nov. 3. Green based his charge on statements he said Haluska made at campaign rallies.

Dist. Atty. Ferdinand Bionaz had said the case would be listed for trial next week.

More Get Rich Than Ever Before

NEW YORK (AP) — The rich may or may not be getting richer but they certainly are getting more numerous.

A study disclosed that the number of U.S. families with annual incomes of $25,000 and up nearly tripled from 1954 to 1963. The study, based mainly on Census Bureau figures, showed that the number of families earning $25,000 or more annually rose from 168,000 to 474,000, a gain of 182 per cent in the 10-year period.

Another old saying has it that the poor will always be with us, but the survey showed that they are growing less numerous. Families with annual incomes of less than $1,000 declined from 3,690,000 to 1,803,000 during the period, a drop of 51 per cent. The study also showed that more than four out of every American families now have incomes over $7,000 a year and that the number earning between $7,000 and $10,000 more than doubled in the 10 years studied.

SANTA and the SINGING TURTLE

He was the handsomest, best-dressed Snowman ever made.

Synopsis: The Prince and the Turtle and the Snowman arrive in Santa Land to find that Santa had gone to Fairyland. Tweedleknese grumpily agrees to get them there in time for the Music Festival.

CHAPTER SEVEN

A DAY IN SANTA LAND
For two hours George and the Prince and the Snowman wandered through the workshops of Santa Land. They had never dreamed of such a wonderland and the little elves who were Santa's helpers had never dreamed of such visitors.

"Are you really real?" they asked the Snowman, pinching off a piece of his arm.
"Ouch! Of course I'm real. But I shan't be long if you keep that up."

HAT AND BROOM

"But, you're not finished!" exclaimed the elves and they put a tall silk hat on top of the Snowman's head. "And a broom! He needs a broom!" They stuck a brand new broom under his arm. "He's one-eyed. Give him another eye!" Out came the jewels and an emerald became the missing eye. The Snowman looked at himself in the mirror. He was the handsomest, best-dressed Snowman ever made.

Meanwhile, George played with a Jack-in-the-Box whose head popped in and out of its house even faster than George's did.

Prince Chad rushed about ex-

the Music Festival.

"Ah, yes," said George longingly. "Let us hurry!"

THEN CAME WOMP

They went off as fast as the Turtle's short legs would permit to the forest on the east side of Santa Land.

Behind them, where none could see, came Womp, the man-witch. All this time Womp had been fidgeting and biting his nails as he waited impatiently to catch the Prince alone.

Womp had promised King Kerchew of Razeppie that he would see to it that the Prince would not return from his trip to Santa Land. If he did not come back he could not be crowned King on Christmas Day and wicked Kerchew (who was only acting king) could go on being king forever.

FOLLOWS PRINCE

But Womp had followed the Prince all the way to Santa Land and never had a chance to be alone with him. Now time was running short and Womp was very worried. Christmas Eve was tomorrow and after that came Christmas and it would be too late to stop the Prince.

But soon, very soon, Womp would get his chance.

Tomorrow: Womp's Chance.

MEET AT WORKSHOP

The two hours sped by and too soon it was time to meet Patrick Tweedleknese at workshop number six. The old fellow was cross as ever, but he handed them each a pair of shoes and it was plain to see he was pleased with the job he had done. There were two giant shoes for the Snowman, four tiny shoes for George and two regular-size for the Prince.

"They are the only ones of their kind in the world," said Tweedleknese. "They will take you to Fairyland but not bring you back. Put them on when you come to the forest that lies on the east of Santa Land. They will carry you faster than your thoughts and you will be in Fairyland in time for breakfast."

WAVES THEM OFF

The three travellers tried to thank him but he waved them off grumpily and stomped back to Santa's house to finish his sleep.

"He is a good fellow," said George. "I wish I could have sung for him. But I don't think he is a music lover."

"He would be if he heard you," said the Snowman loyally. "Perhaps he will," said the Prince. "If George should win

YOU CAN TRUST THE BIBLE

Unbelief is very subtle. It entered upon the human scene in the Garden of Eden and then crept into the human heart. It was clothed in intelligence in the form of a serpent which was more subtle than any beast of the field which God had made. Eve did not recognize it for what it was or doubtless she would have rejected it immediately. Unbelief entered, not in blatant atheism, nor in open rebellion, nor in an honest inquisitiveness, but in the guise of agreeableness with a slight injection of doubt! The serpent said, "Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden" (Gen. 3:1)? First, an affirmation of agreeableness, then . . . the poison of doubt!

The Garden of Eden was the last place in the world where you would expect to find the sin of unbelief. The same is true today of the churches. You would expect that churches and ministers would be proclaiming the Word of God with faith and power. But, sad to say, this is not always the case. Peter wrote, "There shall be false teachers among you, who privily (stealthily) shall bring in damnable (destructive) heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them and bring upon themselves swift destruction" (II Pet. 2:1). Paul wrote, "In the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils, speaking lies in hypocrisy; having their conscience seared with a hot iron" (I Tim. 4:1,2).

To question or to cast doubts upon the trustworthiness of the Bible is the continual work of Satan. From the time of Adam until this present day he has been continually busy at trying to undermine faith in the Scriptures. And he is successful today in the lives of millions of people.

But you can trust the Bible. No problem is brought up by unbelieving Bible scholars which does not have a satisfactory answer from Bible believing scholars. After all, Jesus believed the entire Old Testament, and promised the apostles that the Holy Spirit would " . . . bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you" (John 14:26). The result was the writing of the New Testament. It was Jesus Who said, "O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken" (Luke 24:25).

Paul wrote, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God" (II Tim. 3:16). Peter wrote, "The prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost" (II Pet. 1:21).

Everyone Who Does Not Believe The Bible Will Miss Heaven!

Jesus said, "Ye must be born again" (John 3:7). Peter explained, "Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, BY THE WORD OF GOD, which liveth and abideth forever" (I Pet. 1:23). Again Paul wrote, "The Holy Scriptures . . . are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus" (II Tim. 3:15). The only way to be saved is to have saving faith in Jesus Christ. In order to have this one must believe and receive the Word of God because it is the source of knowledge concerning Jesus Christ. When anyone believes the Bible and accepts Christ as personal Savior, he is born again. Therefore, lay aside all unbelief, " . . . and receive with meekness the engrafted Word, which is able to save your souls" (James 1:2).

If you are familiar with the New Testament you are aware of the fact that the class of people who gave Jesus the most trouble was the religious class. The Gospel of John, chapter 8, gives a classic example of this. Jesus said, "I am the Light of the World," but the Pharisees would not accept this. They said, "Thy record is not true." These men rejected Jesus and sought to kill Him. Why? Jesus gave the reason. "My Word hath no place in you."

They could not even understand what Jesus was saying. "Why do ye not understand my speech?" Jesus asked. "Even because ye cannot hear my Word. Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it. And because I tell you the truth, ye believe me not. Which of you convinceth me of sin? And if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me? HE THAT IS OF GOD HEARETH GOD'S WORDS: YE THEREFORE HEAR THEM NOT, BECAUSE YE ARE NOT OF GOD."

The final result of this discourse with the unbelieving Pharisees was that they took up stones to cast at Him, but Jesus escaped from them.

Dear reader, do you hear God's Word? Do you believe it? Do you understand it? If not, then you are not of God! Believe the Bible, accept what it says about you, about your sin, about heaven, hell, judgment. Receive Christ today before it is too late.

BOYLE VICTOR IN UMW VOTE BY BIG MARGIN

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last

spring W. A. (Tony) Boyle obtained for his United Mine Workers union a soft coal contract he said was "the best made by any labor organization anywhere."

Today, he had a new triumph: an overwhelming victory in the independent union's first contested election in 40 years. Boyle won in his own right the union presidency he inherited last year.

A union official said unofficial returns from Tuesday's election showed Boyle with 90 per cent of the votes in his race against Peve Kochis Jr. of Clarksville, Tenn.

The 60-year-old Montana Irishman with bushy red eyebrows thus has taken over as undisputed leader of his union — a post for which he has been marked for many years.

HELPED LEWIS
In 1948, Boyle was president of UMW District 27 in Billings, Mont., when John L. Lewis, for 36 years the union's stormy president, brought him to Washington as his assistant.

Boyle and Thomas Kennedy, the UMW vice president, helped Lewis run the union. Insiders said that when Lewis roared defiance, Kennedy quietly put on the brakes and Boyle was the man in the middle with the job of making both tactics succeed.

His years as Lewis' assistant marked Boyle for future leadership of the union. However, when asked Wednesday night for his estimate of Boyle, Lewis declined to comment.

By 1960 Lewis, then 79, was ready to retire and Kennedy, a one-time lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania who had been the union's No. 2 man for 35 years, stepped up to the top post. Boyle became vice president.

But Kennedy was 72 and in failing health. Boyle assumed more and more responsibilities, and in 1962 became acting president. The next year he became president when Kennedy died.

FIRST KEY TEST

His first key test was to negotiate a new contract with the bituminous mine owners. The result was a contract that provided the 150,000 soft coal miners in 25 states with pay raises of $2 per day, a $25-a-year increase in vacation pay to $225 and seven paid holidays plus seniority on a minework basis instead of according to each job classification.

Perhaps the greatest problem he faces as UMW president is mechanization—one of the chief factors in reducing union membership from 800,000 in Lewis' heyday to about 500,000 now, of whom 200,000 are in allied industries.

Instead of fighting automation head-on, Boyle has made his pitch on the need for safety. When a Pennsylvania coal field explosion killed 37, he said it "confirmed a belief I have held for some time—that we may be mechanizing the coal industry beyond the point of safety."

Chop Down Tree To Stop Fire

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Volunteers, neighbors and firemen responded when the top of an old locust tree caught fire and it appeared the blaze would threaten the Minerva Christian Church.

The ladders were too short to reach the top.

The tree was chopped down and the fire doused quickly.

If your yeast bread has a distinct flavor of yeast, you are probably allowing the dough to rise at too high a temperature.

A CALL FOR CATHY

Cathy loves to answer the phone, even though the calls aren't for her.

You can imagine how thrilling this moment was. There was really a call for Cathy.

We watched her shining smile... and listened to her shy, awkward replies.

"That was Miss Ferring," she informed us with a slight air of sophistication.

"And who in the world is Miss Ferring?" we asked.

"Oh, she's my Sunday School teacher. I thought you knew—"

A dedicated Christian volunteer was devoting her time and talents to the religious growth of our Cathy—and we didn't even know her name!

We'll remember that call. It brought us to our senses—and to our Church!

News In Review

PATTON RIDES AGAIN
Pistol-Packing, Colorful General
Is Subject Of New, Robust Biography

NO AMERICAN GENERAL
In this century has captured the interest (with divided enthusiasm) more than did General Geo. S. Patton, the pistol-packing cavalier from San Marino, California.

In addition to lesser claims to fame, such as a seven-goal handicap rating for any team for which he titled a polo mallet, Patton lives in military operational history as the captor of French Morocco, the conqueror of most of Sicily, the "liberator" of Central France and the C.G. of the famous, American Third Army.

Last, but by no means least in terms of printer's ink, he is also the general who slapped a soldier and kicked him in the pants.

Though his family and descendants have been less than cooperative with those who would write more of him, Patton's name already dominates the title page of at least eight biographies and semibiographies.

NOW EMERGES an 855-page opus entitled "Patton: Ordeal and Triumph" (Ivan Oblenski, Inc., $9.95) by Ladislav Farago. It is calculated to end, but will not end, all the folklore and conflicting opinions concerning "George" Patton.

Be it said in passing that only the closest of friends and those who definitely outranked him could ever call him "George" to his face and get away with it. Even so, and contrary to the "Blood and Guts" legend, the American Army never knew him by any other name — except for official orders and payroll purposes.

As a pink-faced second lieutenant out of five years at West Point, he went to his cavalry assignment with an inherited million dollars in sound investments and married to a handsome, sports-minded heiress who had even more money than he. Such a condition invites envy from all quacks and subordinates and a jaundiced eye from an occasional commanding officer.

George met the situation bravely. He sought to live down the adverse reputation for being filthy rich by spending his money filthily. He went in for horses — polo ponies, show horses, trotters, jumpers and range, long-winded durable mounts for cavalry maneuvers.

Except when immaculately attired in a Saville Row uniform, hand-tailored boots with silver spurs, for a high level reception, he was normally found in the fort riding hall or at the stables. To reduce his constantly growing string of horses, Patton would occasionally give away a plug that had brought back from the horse show no more than a yellow ribbon. The beneficiary might be a junior officer or a general, whichever happened to cross

George's path the moment he made the decision to rid himself of the disgusting animal. In the process of spending his money filthily, George developed the most profusely profane and obnoxiously obscene oral vocabulary in the history of the Cavalry, a service often associated with four-letter words. At most inappropriate times his remarks were of a character that would have brought blushes to the leathery cheeks of a stable sergeant or excited the poetic envy of a veteran mule driver.

PATTON, nevertheless, was a thorough student of warfare. He wrote well, with most original spelling, for military publications. Out of World War I as a temporary colonel, tank corps, with wound, decorations and a record for boldness, he resumed the long road upward from his permanent-list rank of major.

Not always appreciated, he was, nevertheless, one of the Army's most widely known majors. From Washington, D. C. to Hawaii, all agreed he was headed for a court martial or the stars. When General George C. Marshall nosed out General Hugh A. Drum for chief of staff, the path was open to the

KITS EXPLAIN WHY DEFENSE PLANTS CLOSE

By EDMOND LEBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — In case the new Democratic congressmen didn't already know it, they have now been told:

It is painful to have to explain to your constituents why an administration of your party has closed a military base in your district.

But the Democratic National Committee, having discussed this fact of life with the freshmen, is prepared to help.

Among the materials given nearly 70 newly elected Democratic representatives at a briefing session Wednesday was a kit relating to the decision by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to close installations now employing about 63,000 persons.

SAMPLE TALKS

The kit includes a sample five-minute radio or television script adaptable for use by any congressman about any base and a similar news release. They emphasize annual savings of nearly $500 million claimed for the McNamara action; arguments that the closings will not Thereafter, Mr. Farago's superb book is pretty much a review of the military operational history of World War II in Europe, with the colorful Patton the centerpiece. Though the author has sympathetic appreciation for his subject, there is a complete absence of blind admiration.

At times one regrets the lavish use of nonited quotations in important, small-group conversations. It is conceded, however, that the necessary pauses for reference, citations and documentation would have greatly impaired the readability and literary quality of this magnificent narrative of a most unusual soldier and brave, dedicated patriot.

Mr. Farago handles the facts of the soldier slapping incidents extremely well. There is the additional innuendo that Drew Pearson's irresponsibility in publicizing one of the two incidents did America a distinct disservice. It deprived the nation of Patton's services as an army commander right when he was badly needed at Salerno and northward. With Patton commanding American troops on The Boot, Farago argues Rome would have been liberated much sooner.

The publisher's blurb proposes that this volume is "the missing link" in the history of World War II. This is hardly correct. Until there are full dress biographies of the extremely modest Curtney H. Hodges, C.G., American First Army, and of the equally modest Field Marshal H. R. L. G. Alexander, who with rare skill handled Montgomery and Patton, the two most temperamental military prima donnas in American and English history, extremely large biographical "links" are still missing.

Do you keep seasoned flour on hand for coating chicken that is to be fried? The usual proportions for the mixture are 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, and 1/4 teaspoon pepper; but many cooks like to add, also, 1/4 teaspoon paprika. The paprika helps give the chicken ruddy color.

impair defense, and descriptions of the department's actions to maintain jobs for career employees.

The television-radio script, which incorporates clips of McNamara's own explanations, is complete right down to camera directions — "Congressman looks to his right . . . pick up chart with congressman's voice over . . ."

MORE NOW WORKING

Much of the script is devoted to telling how Presque Isle, Maine, not only survived closing of a base three years ago but developed private industries on the site that now hire more people than worked for the military.

The proposed news release announcing the telecast begins: "Congressman — said today that 'imaginative businessmen' can make recently closed military bases 'tax-payers instead of tax-eaters.'"

The congressmen were told they could make a five-minute film clip for about $12 at the House recording studio.

GIVE $100,000 TO VOLUNTEER FIRE COMPANY

EBENSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Allan A. Barker lived in this Western Pennsylvania community years ago and after he left in 1915 nobody heard much of him.

But now he's pretty well known in these parts. He has left a bequest, and a sizable one at that, to the Dauntless
Volunteer Fire Co.

Just how sizable the firemen didn't know until Wednesday night when attorneys told a special meeting that Barker left the fire company more than $100,000, consisting of property in the Bradenton, Fla., area and 750 shares of stock in the First National Bank of Ebsenburg.

TO PUT IN BONDS
Barker's will specified that the property is to be sold and the proceeds invested in government bonds. The stock is to be used as permanent investment capital. The fire company may make use of the profits from the investments.

Barker was a rancher and financier in Manatee County,
Fla. He died in a Bradenton nursing home on Nov. 26 at the age of 82.

No one here recalls that he ever was a volunteer fireman.

ASSOC. EDITOR OF "HOLIDAY" RESIGNS POST

NEW YORK (AP)—Jane Clapperton, associate editor of Holiday magazine, has resigned her position in a conflict over policy between the Curtis Publishing Co. management and its employees.

She joined four other key Holiday employees in leaving the magazine to protest the refusal of Curtis' management to remove Don Schanche as editor of Holiday.

Meanwhile, 60 contributors to Holiday signed an advertisement in the New York Times in support of the staff members who left Holiday.

Commenting on the resignations, Curtis said it did not question the professional talents of those who resigned, but added: "Obviously, the operation of a large corporation calls not only for leadership but also for discipline and loyalty among the company's employees."

In another development Curtis said that in trying to solve some of its financial ills it will lay off 90 workers at its Lock Haven, Pa., paper-making subsidiary instead of the previously announced 250. The 90 workers are in the soda pulp mill facility.

The company said the change was prompted by a new estimate of its expected demand for paper for publishing the Post that is 20 to 30 per cent higher than previously anticipated.

Curtis President J. M. Clifford estimated last month that the Post's deficit in 1965 would run $3 million to $3.5 million, com-

Girl's Letter Aids Forest Service

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Susan Kaye Dickenson and Smokey the bear are now in partnership.

Susan, 11, recently wrote a letter to President Johnson with this suggestion:

If service station attendants would offer to empty car ashtrays for customers, more people might use them instead of creating fire hazards by flinging cigarette butts out the window.

The Forest Service replied for the President.

"As a result of your suggestion," the letter said, "the folks in Smokey Bear's headquarters will be working with some of the major oil companies to launch a campaign whereby service station attendants will offer to empty ashtrays."

MONEY SAVING HAMMER
HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Every time Marshall Space Flight Center rocket engineers use their new magnetic hammer it saves taxpayers $30,000. They developed the electronic device to remove distortions from segments used in making fuel tank domes for the giant Saturn V moon rocket booster. Such distortions could ruin the tank segments at a cost of $30,000. The new tool "hammers" out the defects with electrical pulses lasting about 500 millionths of a second.

pared to $9 million this year. Clifford said the reduction would result if the Post gets 1,100 pages of advertising in its 26 issues, compared with 1,350 ad pages in 45 issues this year. The Post will be published every other week after its Dec. 12 issue.

And Perhaps Tigers In The Oil Tanks?

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — There have been some surprises here lately for maintenance staff men of the New York State Electric and Gas Corp. while descending into residential cellars.

Noval Seeloff, hearing a hissing sound, turned his flashlight on it and learned it came from an alligator. In another basement, Roy Scinta was startled to have a pet monkey leap to his shoulder.

COMPUTER AIDS PUNCH CARD TO CATCH ROBBER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Detectives credited automation today with cracking its first case. A punch card was a stool pigeon.

The case began when a man handed Florio Ferguson, a cashier in a telephone company office, this note:

"I have a gun in my belt. Don't make me use it. Give me all the bills at once."

She gave him $76 in bills but, as it turned out, he gave her a bill, too. A telephone bill.

That's what the threatening note was written on. But the name of the person billed had been torn away.

That was last month. In jail today, booked on suspicion of robbery, is Arthur C. Moore. Police say Miss Ferguson identified Moore from photographs as the man who robbed her.

What led detectives to Moore's door? The telephone bill, officers said.

They explained that although the name was torn off those little punch-card holes remained. Detectives took the bill to the telephone company computer, and, with a buzz and a whirr, it clicked out the name and address that had been torn away.

Officers picked up Moore Tuesday night.

Moore denied robbing Miss Ferguson.

Farmer Loses Leg In Tractor Gear

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (AP) — John D. Martin, 57, of Mercersburg R.D. 2, suffered the loss of his left leg Wednesday in a tractor accident on his farm.

A spokesman at Chambersburg Hospital said Martin's leg was caught in the power take-off mechanism of the tractor. He drove the tractor from the field to his house to summon help after the leg had been severed, hospital attendants said they were told.

MUG CAMPAIGN AIDS LOVE TRIP

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale freshman Clayton E. Day Jr. plans to keep passing the mug to finance his flight to a girl he describes as "just fantastic, perfect, just amazing, just tremendous."

The girl, Megan Waldo, 16, lives in Reno, Nev.

The 18-year-old football player from Arlington, Va., decided he would need at least $225 to pay a Christmas holiday visit to Megan, whom he met aboard an ocean liner last summer.

He asked fellow students to contribute a dime each. A job would have short-changed his studies, he said.

Day's mug-passing has been a success so far with about eight nights left to continue solicitations.

Should the drive exceed his goal, Day said he will do something worthwhile with the balance.

Police Add 12 To Canine Corps

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois State Police have put teeth into fighting crime.

A corps of 12 German Shepherd dogs — one for each district — has been added to accompany troopers while on duty.

Both dogs and masters have completed a two-month course at Vandalia's State Police Farm. Troopers assigned to handle state police dogs volunteer for the job — the trooper must like dogs.

The Elgin District's dog is Dusty, a 3½-year-old male who weighs 90 pounds. Others assigned weigh as much as 115 pounds.

Ancient Egyptians put dolls in tombs to perform menial tasks for the deceased in the other world.

"All I want to do is get to Reno and back," Day said.
